U.S. Jet Bombers Continue Hammering Cong Targets

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. B57 jet bombers continued hammering suspected Viet Cong strongpoints 40 miles southeast of Saigon today.

Air Force spokesmen said the twin-jet planes flew 32 sorties in the morning and 15 in the afternoon over jungled Phuoc Tuy Province. Each bomber from Bien Hoa Airbase carried 13,500-pound bombs on each sortie.

There was no immediate indication what success the raids had.

U.S. authorities reported that in heavy fighting in Binh Dinh Province during the past four days, the government casualty toll had risen to at least 160 — 43 killed, 51 wounded and 66 missing.

The heaviest engagements were due west of the mountain town of An Khe, along the main mountain road leading to Pleiku.

American casualties in the Binh Dinh fighting so far were recorded as one killed and 10 wounded. Six of the wounded were helicopter crewmen.

Fighting throughout the nation appeared in a temporary lull today, and no major engagements were reported anywhere. Viet Cong incidents during the past 24 hours were reported fewer than at any time in the past week.

Air Force and Naval units were alerted after another large Communist vessel was rumored approaching the coast from the South China Sea. Search units reportedly found nothing.

Last week the sighting and bombing of an ocean-going Communist boat resulted in capture of the largest cache of Viet Cong weapons yet seized.

Members of South Viet Nam's Armed Forces Council met in Saigon Thursday night, reportedly to pick a successor for their ousted chairman, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

There was no word on whether any decision was reached. Two apparent contenders for the post, which carried with it command of the armed forces, are the air force commander,

U.S. Property Seized by Indonesians

JAKARTA (UPI—Indonesia today announced the takeover of American rubber plantations in North Sumatra, effective immediately.

It was the first time the Indonesian government has directly seized American property.

Estates Minister Frans Seda read a decree signed by Foreign Minister Dr. Subandrio which announced the seizure of the American property valued at $80 million.

The decree said the estates would be managed by the Indonesian government but that Indonesia "recognized" the ownership rights of the Americans.

Informed sources said Indonesian teams already had been installed in the U.S. Rubber and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber estates.

Hunt Continues For Old Texas Buried Treasure

SALADO, Tex. (AP) — Nobody has found anything but everybody taking part seems to think he's on the verge of instant wealth in the big Salado hunt for what legend says is buried treasure.

It's a production assuming comic opera aspects every now and then.

Men and machines are dynamiting and tunneling into the limestone cliffs near here in central Texas.

One man says he stumbled across the Spanish treasure in a cave several years ago, but he panicked while hunting a way out and didn't think to take any gold with him.

Then there's an individual called Pig Red, who gives all the reporters exclusive interviews. He's not one to confuse facts with a good story, and none of his stories is told the same way twice.

Pig said he's 59 but doesn't look it. He has a mostly red beard and he wears sun glasses and keeps a pistol in his belt. He guards the gate.

College Coed Reports Attack On CC Campus

A college coed was attacked by an unknown masked male on the Colorado College campus west of Shove Chapel at approximately 8:50 p.m. Thursday, police reported.

The coed, a student at Colorado College, told police she had gone to the 7-11 store in the 200 block of E. Cache La Poudre Street and was on her way back to her house. She said she was cutting across the campus when she heard someone running behind her. She said at this point she looked around and saw a young man almost to her.

He was wearing a white mask over his face, and according to the report he grabbed her and threw her to the ground and began pulling at her skirt. She said that at this time she began screaming and attracted a number of male students at Slocum Hall who came running outside, and her attacker then got up and fled.

The coed described the man as being white, between 18 and 25 years old, approximately five feet eight inches tall, and wearing a black jacket. She said he had dark hair, and was wearing a white cloth mask tied around his face.

SPECTACLES TO AID BLIND PEOPLE TO 'SEE' — Ralph Hotchkiss, 17, of Rockford, Ill., wears glasses he built and says they're designed to enable blind people to "see with their ears." Mirror lenses in glasses reflect light from objects in front of wearer to pair of photosensitive cells protruding before each lens. Meany to Seek $2 an Hour Minimum Wage

By NEIL GILBRIDE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany disclosed plans today to lead a delegation of top labor leaders to the White House to demand President Johnson's support for a $2 hourly minimum wage.

"The present $1.25 an hour minimum is a poverty wage," Meany said. "We can't lick poverty in America without an increase."

The administration in the past has rejected organized labor's demands for an increase in the minimum wage.

However, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, in an appearance before the AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting here seemed to leave the door open for the first time, while still refusing to commit the administration.

Wirtz said earlier this week that any such decision was up to President Johnson.

Sources here say they have received word from the administration that an increase in the minimum wage is under active consideration, due largely to pressure from the politically powerful AFL-CIO.

Meany's delegation will include Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, David Dubinsky, president of the Ladies Garment Workers and Jacob Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

They will visit Johnson after the council meeting which closes next week.

They will also ask Johnson to support legislation to cut the 40-hour work week to 35 hours, another key AFL-CIO goal. They apparently have less confidence of convincing the President on this score.

But the AFL-CIO leaders appeared confident enough of success on their minimum wage demands to put their prestige on the line publicly in a confrontation with Johnson.

A spokesman said they will tell the President that the AFL-CIO won't settle for less than a $2 minimum wage.

What will they do if Johnson

Boy Who Wantedto See Mother Dies in Storm

ANDREWS, Tex. (UPI) — Nine-year-old Walter Wesley Butler, the product of a broken home, was lonely for his mother. So he began a 30-mile walk to see her that ended in his death.

The body of the boy, dead from exposure in 11-degree weather, was found alongside a state highway Thursday, 15 miles from his destination.

Young Walter lived at the Otto's Boys Ranch, 30 miles south of Andrews in West Texas, where his mother lives. His father lives in Kansas.

Lonely because he had not seen his mother since Christmas, the boy started hiking northward last Monday. He was too small to be concerned with weather reports and he did not know the worst storm of the winter was ready to blast West Texas with subfreezing temperatures and freezing rain.

A search was instigated after the boy was missed at the ranch. Some 100 persons and six airplanes conducted the hunt for two unsuccessful days, but it took an oilworker driving along a state highway to spot the small body in a clump of mesquite trees Thursday.

The boy's mother, Mrs. M.L. Clark, who had remarried, sent him to the ranch last September. Otto Pavlicek, owner of the ranch, said the boy had run away from home a few times and that he had run away from the ranch once before.

But he said this time Walter wanted to see his mother.

Walter will be buried Sunday.

Dr. King Faces L.A. Threat of Dynamiting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police tightened security around civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. today, while searching for a man they described as a white racist who may be armed with high explosives.

Detectives said they found boxes of stolen dynamite and other explosives Thursday night in the apartment of Keith D. Gilbert, 27, a gun dealer already awaiting trial on the charge of attempting to kill a man — a Negro — last September.

Two men later were picked up for questioning in connection with the theft. Subsequently, they were booked on suspicion of burglary.

Officers said the boxes found in Gilbert's apartment had been opened, and it was not known whether any dynamite or ammonium nitrate — an unstable chemical which vastly increases explosive potential — was missing.

The explosives found, however, were those taken from a powder company magazine early Thursday morning, police reported.

Several hours after the theft an anonymous caller said the dynamite would be used to kill Dr. King.

Police identified the two men booked on suspicion of burglary as Rodney Chesney, 42, and his nephew, Ronald Bartell, 24, both of nearby Sunland.

Also in Gilbert's apartment, police said, were bazookas, a mortar, hand grenades and application forms for a group one

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin today demanded the withdrawal of American forces from both South Viet Nam and South Korea as a prelude to a peaceful settlement of the Far Eastern crisis.

Kosygin, in a nationwide television report on his recent visit to the Far East, said the United States "aggression" against North Viet Nam cannot go unpunished.

"If the American imperialists continue the aggressive actions, the conflict in that part of the world will inevitably transcend its original boundaries," Kosygin said.

"An end to the United States aggressive actions against the democratic republic of Viet Nam is needed, first and foremost, to create conditions for the exploration of avenues leading to the normalization of the situation in Indochina.

"The American forces must be withdrawn from South Viet Nam and South Korea. The people themselves must settle their destinies."

Kosygin said the Soviet Union was ready to continue the struggle for easing international tension and for general disarmament and was willing to work with the peoples of the world including the United States, Britain and France.

Kosygin said U.S. interference in Laos complicates the situation in that country and called it "one more example of how international agreements and international law are trampled underfoot."

He said if no rebuff was given to the imperialist policy of using military force the independence of the young states of Asia, Africa and South America would be under constant threat.

He recalled recent Washington statements on the necessity of expanding international contacts but said these could not be squared with actions against North Viet Nam. He called this a violation of the United Nations Charter and said it was a slippery road "which may have far-reaching consequences."

U.S. Insists North Viets First Stop Aiding Rebels

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — North Viet Nam reportedly favors Secretary-General U Thant's proposal for negotiations to end the war in Viet Nam, but the United States wants indications first that Hanoi is ready to stop sending arms and reinforcements into South Viet Nam.

U.N. sources said Thant received word that the North Vietnamese regime was receptive to the idea of negotiations before he told a news conference Wednesday that he had made proposals looking toward a political solution to the war.

The sources said Thant submitted proposals two weeks ago to North Viet Nam, the United States, France, Britain and the Soviet Union for preliminary talks to set up another conference on Viet Nam like the 1954 Geneva conference which ended the French-Indochinese War.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a news conference in Washington Thursday peace talks were out of the question until North Viet Nam shows it is ready to stop sending arms and reinforcements into South Viet Nam. He declined to say what kind of indication from the Communists would be accepted.

"No political gimmick" can stop Red aggression against South Viet Nam, Rusk said.

So long as the Communists are determined on "continuing aggression," he continued, "that has to be met on the ground, factually, directly."

He reaffirmed the Johnson administration's determination to take whatever action it considers necessary to assist South Viet Nam.

Rusk's remarks were the first detailed exposition of U.S. policy on negotiations since the United States started bombing infiltration targets in North Viet Nam and since Britain, France, the Soviet Union and other countries began an active diplomatic search for a peaceful settlement lest the war be expanded rapidly.

Rusk said the United States intends to publish in a few days "a full and up-to-date summary of evidence" establishing North Viet Nam's "direct responsibility" for "a systematic campaign of terror and guerrilla action" in South Viet Nam.

He said the U.S. position on negotiations was given to Red China Wednesday at the meeting in Warsaw between U.S. Ambassador John Moors Cabot and Chinese envoy Wang Kuo-chuan.

"Political channels have been and are open," Rusk said, "and a considerable number of governments are actively interested in keeping them open to explore the possibilities of a peaceful solution.

"But a negotiation aimed at the acceptance or the confirmation of aggression is not possi-

LBJ, Aides Expect Viet Nam Fighting to Expand

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson and his top lieutenants anticipate that the tortuous war in Viet Nam "will grow" but "remain controlled."

That is, "new confrontations" in the form of Communist attacks and retaliatory air strikes are deemed virtually certain.

At the same time, both sides will avoid a major conflict on the ground or the use of nuclear weapons.

That's what the President and Secretaries Rusk and McNamara are telling congressional and other authorities in unannounced briefings and meetings. They voiced this outlook to French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville in his discussions here last week.

In these backstage talks, it was made clear the administration is willing to negotiate a political settlement of the protracted Viet Nam conflict. But it was contended that is not feasible at this time for two principal reasons:

The terms demanded by Moscow and Peking are considered "too high."

South Viet Nam and the U.S. have strong views on the imperative need to "improve the military situation" before sitting down at a conference table.

In his talks with Couve de Murville, the President stressed two points — willingness to negotiate, and the Reds' unacceptable terms.

On the first, the President explained that, while he is prepared to negotiate, public opinion in the U.S. is heavily against that until the military situation in South Viet Nam is more favorable.

On the second point, the President stated the Kremlin has been sounded out on a regional settlement in Southeast Asia, but this was rejected on the ground the Soviet is interested only in undertaking an over-all Asian agreement. To the U.S., that's not practical at

Negro Shot in Selma Rioting Dies of Wounds

SELMA, Ala. (AP)— A young Negro shot in the stomach in a bloody night of racial violence at nearby Marion, Ala., died in a Selma hospital today following emergency surgery.

Jimmy Lee Jackson, 26, of Marion, who had shown signs of improvement since the shooting on the night of Feb. 18, took a turn for the worse late Thursday night and underwent a four-hour operation.

A spokesman at Good Samaritan Hospital said death was attributed to massive infection. The hospital said an autopsy would be performed during the day.

'Selling America on Positive Side' Urged

Selling America is an individual matter for all of us who have tasted its fruits and believe in its way of life, Richard De Vos, Amway president, told his SWAP Club listeners Thursday night.

Speaking before approximately 600 banqueters in the Broadmoor International Center, De Vos dynamically expounded what he termed "Selling America on the positive side."

"Americans live in a land that gives them everything you could find in this world and yet they do not realize it," De Vos said.

"We live in a country today where, although we talk a lot about it, there are many individuals who don't believe in it. They don't believe in America.

They don't believe in free enterprise. If you were to call them a Communist they deny it, saying they don't think that way. Yet if you get right down to the facts, they are willing to let someone else carry the load for them.

"They don't believe anymore that there is a chance for individual action and advancement.

Second Muslim Is Charged in Malcolm Killing

By WILLIAM H. KANE

NEW YORK (AP) — Police today charged a 26-year-old Negro they identified as a Black Muslim "enforcer" with homicide in the assassination of Malcolm X, black nationalist leader.

Norman 3X Butler, of the Bronx, was the second to be charged by police since the slaying Sunday of Malcolm X, who bolted from the Black Muslims more than a year ago and formed a rival sect.

Malcolm, 39, was felled by 13 shots from three guns as he started to address a rally of 400 persons in a ballroom in the Washington Heights section of Manhattan.

Talmadge Hayer, 22, a Negro from Paterson, N.J., who was captured outside the ballroom after he had been shot in the leg by one of Malcolm's bodyguards, also has been charged with homicide. Police alleged he used a shotgun, one of three weapons employed in the deadly attack.

Supreme Court Justice Black 79 Years Old

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Birthdays," says Hugo L. Black, "are very nice things to have had."

Tomorrow the justice will have his 79th, but he isn't planning a celebration. "And there will be none if I can help it," he said Thursday.

Not even a birthday cake?

"I don' like cake," the justice said firmly.

But if the weather is warm and dry, it is reasonably safe to assume that Justice Black will be playing tennis on the clay court behind his house in Alexandria, Va.

For while Black doesn't have time for hobbies, tennis is an exception. He plays every chance he gets.

The justice's health is excellent, his attendance record gives his office staff something to shoot at and his brisk work pace removes any doubt that he intends to stay on the bench.

In any event, if Black were thinking of retirement he wouldn't have appointed the two new law clerks who will be at his side in the Supreme Court term that begins in October.

And he has made the appointments — two young lawyers from Alabama, the state where Hugo La Fayette Black was born on Feb. 27, 1886, the eighth child of a storekeeper-farmer.

Black's 27 years on the court make him the senior justice in point of service. As such, he sits to the immediate right of the chief justice, Earl Warren.

Black's decisions over 27 years are especially marked in their defense of human rights and the Bill of Rights.

Because he believes the court should take an active role in protecting the individual against excesses of the state, he has come to be known popularly as a "judicial activist."

For years he was in the minority. But he has seen many of his dissents become law, a process speeded by the retirement in 1962 of his colleague and judicial adversary since 1939, Felix Frankfurter.

Because of their 23 years together on the court "we were bound to be close," Black said Thursday.

Frankfurter died Monday afternoon. Black was in Florida, finishing a three-week stay at his apartment in Coral Gables. He had played tennis "nearly every day" and visited with his son, Hugo Black Jr., in Miami.

Black learned of Frankfurter's death when he picked up a newspaper in Jessup, Ga., where he and Mrs. Black stopped along the 1,080-mile trip back to Washington.

In tribute to his old colleague, he said:

"I became Felix' friend and admirer long before we began service together on the court more than a quarter of a century ago. That friendship and admiration continued up to the time of his death.

"His great mind, his impassioned love of his country, its laws and its democratic ideals, all contributed to make him one of the most useful public men of his generation.

"He will be greatly missed."

Innumerable Boat Models Available

So you're going to buy a boat! If you haven't already made up your mind, it may be difficult to make a choice.

A recent survey shows there are at least 2,898 different models of stock recreational boats on the market ranging in size from 5-feet, 8-inches to 75 feet in length and in price from $24 to $260,000.

The survey, conducted by the editors of Popular Boating, shows that these boats are built and offered for sale by 381 different companies. They include inboards, stern drive, outboards, cruising and day sailboats, pontoon and house boats, and such "little boats" as rowboats, dinghies and canoes.

Most expensive of the 2,898 $260,000—is a 75-foot steel-hulled sedan cruiser with sleeping accommodations for 14 persons. Least expensive is a 9 - foot wood and canvas kayak.

A breakdown of construction material shows that 47.1 per cent of the models are fiberglass, 15.8 per cent aluminum, 13.7 per cent plywood, 12.8 per cent solid wood planking, 3.8 per cent steel, 2.3 per cent a combination of wood and fiberglass, and 4.5 per cent in such materials as rubber, canvas, expanded polystyrene foam and a combination of aluminum and fiberglass.

About a third of the 2,898 boats have some form of sleeping accommodations, ranging from elaborate staterooms to convertible fold-down seats on small runabouts.

Here's the size and price ranges in the various categories:

—Conventional inboards: range from 15 to 75 feet in length and from $1,995 to $260,000 in price.

—Stern drives: from 13-feet, 7-inches to 37-feet, 4-inches in length; from $525 to $33,000 in price.

—Outboards: 7-feet, 6-inches to 24 feet; $79 to $5,875.

—Cruising sailboats: 15 to 64 feet; $1,595 to $150,000.

—Day sailboats: 7-feet, 8-inches to 32-feet, 5-inches; $99 to $9,800.

—Houseboats and pontoon boats 12 to 65 feet; $325 to $29,000.

Rowboats, dinghies, canoes and specialty boats: 5-feet, 8-inches to 34-feet; $24 to $1,871.

More than two-thirds of the stern drive boats and almost that percentage of day sailboats are of fiberglass. Cruising sailboats are 58.5 in fiberglass. Among the inboards, 44.1 per cent are of wood.

Nuclear Space Flight Reactor Test Planned

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — Scientists at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory expect a late spring or early summer test of the Phoebus nuclear space-flight reactor.

Phoebus is a follow-up of the Kiwi reactor program which ended Jan. 12 with a planned reactor explosion to demonstrate the minimum danger involved in an accidental reactor explosion. Both Kiwi and Phoebus are part of Project Rover, this country's development of nuclear-powered engines for manned space flight.

Dr. Roderick W. Spence, head of the Rover program at Los Alamaos, said Kiwi tests showed there are no serious technical blocks to developing nuclear space engines which will give higher power yields than chemical engines now in use.

'Challenge of Sixties' Topic For Exchange Club Speaker

"We seek victory for freedom through peaceful processes in all countries of the world." Lt. Col. Leroy R. Waterman, Air Force, told Exchange Club members Thursday.

Col. Waterman is presently in the city as part of the faculty of the National Security Seminar, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and now in progress at the city auditorium.

Waterman spoke to the club on what he termed "The Challenge of the Sixties". The challenges listed by the colonel in his talk, were: those of developing nations, cooperation of nations, Communism, and lastly, the challenge of America.

Emerging nations are being held back today due to outdated government and economic conceptions. Such nations need knowledge to overcome the handicap of inexperienced leaders in order to establish a democratic self government under law, Waterman said.

America can meet the challenge posed for freedom by supplying the technical know-how of resource development and also by supplying housing, food, education and educational facilities.

These new countries look upon America as a trail - blazer in these respects and look to our nation of support and understanding, he continued.

The United Nations is a good example of how nations can cooperate, and the history of this organization shows its effectiveness, Waterman said. He was speaking of the United Nation's activities in handling the sundry economic problems of nations as a whole.

Communism seeks to destroy all governments that stand in the path of its goal of world domination, Waterman said. Through revolution and agitation it seeks to disrupt and corrupt emerging societies of new nations as they appear.

Communism is powerful, its strength lies within the close knit fabric of and the dedication of its members. Communism attempts to damage our prestige while we strive to build in these new nations the spirit of free economy.

"We must join with free peoples to halt Communism. We must maintain the most powerful military force available. We must help freedom - loving peoples explore the danger of warlike conflict.

"We must also search for possible agreement and exploit all impulses in Communist countries to unite common interests in relation to such countries trends toward national independence," Waterman said.

In conclusion, the colonel said that America has grown to be a great power and the future of our nation and that of all others are forever bound together.

Waterman will give five lectures at the seminar, including those on: Transportation and telecommunications; civil defense; international relations; captive Europe, and Latin America.

A native of Kansas, Col. Waterman, before entering the service as an aviation cadet in 1942, worked as an advertising salesman for the Topeka Daily Capital and the Topeka State Journal.

The National Security Seminar is presented by the federal government and is a two-week version of the 10-month course that is given at the Industrial College of the Armed Forces in Washington.

The seminar is a broad, information - packed presentation of facts concerning the country's security. It is designed to increase general understanding of the need of cooperation and preparation in current times of world troubles and national danger, seminar officials said.

Waterman was introduced at the Exchange Club luncheon by Col. Erwin Turner, ADC. engineer.

Negro Is Gratified Over Hoax in Klan

NAMPA, Idaho (AP) — Paul Bellesen, 33, Negro janitor, who was Idaho's highest Ku Klux Klan official for a day, says he feels good about the national publicity over his feat.

Bellesen received a commission from the National Knights of Ku Klux Klan Wednesday as the great titan of Idaho simply by applying and paying the $15 fee, after correspondence with the Klan's imperial wizrad, James R. Venable.

Venable revoked Bellesen's membership promptly when informed he is a Negro.

Bellesen is founding his own KKK — Kleen Kounty Klan — on the advice of a national Negro newspaper.

The only requirement is American citizenship and there are no initiation rites, he said.

Reapportionment Vital for U.S., Professor Says

ica and its cities fight the problems is reapportionment of the various state legislatures, he said.

McBride pointed out that cities today are centers for minorities who have not had full voices in the state legislatures.

As an example of what can happen in cities full of minorities who are frustrated, he cited the current apparent civil war among the Negro groups of the urban population as the Black Nationalists and the Black Muslims line up against each other.

He added that the minorities have many other problems that are not being settled in that way, but that must be settled.

The people in the cities have not had an equal vote in the state assembles, which were set up by agrarian societies and not reapportioned to meet the changes, the professor said.

He cited California as an example: The state constitution there allowed no more than one senator to a county, so Los Angeles county, of about six million people, had the same representation in the state senate as a group of five counties in northern California with a population of 2,700 persons.

Another example was Tennessee where there had been no changes in apportionment of the legislature since 1901. Since that time, the population has more than doubled, and in Tennessee the center of Nashville, Knoxville, Memphis and Chattanooga have developed into large cities.

(The population of the United States at the turn of the century was about 78 million, and Tennessee had about 2 million. In the 1960 census Tennessee had more than 3½ million and the United States was over the 160 million mark — and now is at about 190 million.)

The people in the cities have not had their fair share of representation and thus have not been able to get answers to their problems from the state legislatures, McBride stated.

Thus the mayors have beat a path to Washington for they found more receptive ears there than they did in their home states, he declared.

When the U.S. Supreme Court reversed itself in 1963 and allowed that it did have a right to direct state reapportionment it faced up to one of the pressing problems of the day.

"It had to come, but the amazing thing is that it was done by the Supreme Court and not the legislatures," McBride said.

The view expounded by the Supreme Court was that of "one man — one vote," he explained.

The people in the cities, these frustrated minorities, will cast their vote for the people who talk to them in the terms they understand, for after all that is the traditional way in America, McBride sated.

This will place in the state legislature more representatives who will voice the complaints of the minority groups, he explained.

The court decision gave a voice to the people in the cities just in time for them to help solve the problems, he said.

The Supreme Court order, which has upset a lot of legislatures to one degree or another, including Colorado's, was a bloodless political revolution, McBride declared.

The court decision said in essence, "the rights of the individual to have an equal vote are above the majority will as expressed in a vote. The decision said that the state can not take away the right an individual has to cast one vote equal to any other, and neither can the people take away that right by casting their votes for an issue that would take away the right," McBride said.

"The right of the man to vote and have his vote counted equally with others is the most important right, the court ruled," the professor stated.

This has not been the case, McBride said, and pointed out that most state legislatures were apportioned on agrarian basis that shut out the cities so far as equal representation is concerned.

Frustrated at home because they could not get action from their state legislatures, the cities turned to Washington, he said.

"This was not a scheme to make decisions in Washington. The cities had to go to Washington and there they found Congress was more sympathetic to their problems than their own legislatures were.

So the cities worked for highway projects, for urban renewal, for FHA and other programs, and thus promoted decision making in Washington.

Now the cities may not have to go to Washington and may be able to do more things for themselves.

While the cities have been getting money from Washington for their projects, with certain strings attached, they may find that they soon will be able to get a better break in the distribution of state funds, since they will have more representatives in the state assemblies.

As an example of how state funds are distributed, he pointed to the highway fund in Colorado, after Colorado State Patrol expenses are taken out.

The Highway Department gets 67 per cent of the funds, which have been running in the area of about $70 million a year.

Then the counties get the next 26 per cent, with the cities getting the remaining 9 per cent. Denver is not counted as a county in the breakdown, so that the other 62 counties get 26 per cent of the total, although they do not have nearly as many cars and do not consume nearly as much gasoline as the cities do, he said.

Some day in the future, this probably will change, as the cities get more representation and thus are able to have a voice in the distribution of the state funds, McBride stated.

SALESMEN-OF-THE-YEAR — Donald Bauman (right) shakes hands with SWAP cluber Rex Dodson Thursday night after Bauman was presented with the salesmen-of-the-year award at the club's annual banquet. Bauman, a Daniels Motors salesman, is the youngest salesman to have received this outstanding award.

Bauman Awarded Salesmanship SWAP Honors

bia Savings Co., Richard C. Moore, Gazette Telegraph, C. K. Dean, Amway products, and Ben Langella, Mademoiselle of Colorado.

Also mentioned and honored at the banquet was Paul M. Gibson, recipient of the club's right attitude award. Two other recipients of this award who were not present but whose named were mentioned were: Rullel M. Wolfe, Flying W Ranch and Jack Benny.

Bauman is the youngest salesman to receive the Outstanding Salesmanship Award, being just 26 years of age. He came to Colorado Springs a couple of years ago from Indiana and lives at 1519 Chelton Rd., with his wife Carolyn and two children.

Bauman is superintendent of the Sunday School at Bethel Church.

In making the presentation Rex Dodson, former winner of the award, declared that the SWAP Club was truly aware of the impact made to our economy by such selling accomplishments as the Antlers Plaza by Chase Stone and the many projects of Bill Smartt running into millions of dollars. He pointed out, however, these men had years of experience before such deeds were possible.

Since training of top salesmen took long periods of time it was necessary to begin early and therefore it was with extraordinary pleasure that the club could recognize oustanding accomplishments in young men in general and Bauman in 1964.

'Selling America on Positive Side' Urged

why the group didn't try harder to get ahead by continuing their education showed that the youngsters felt there's nothing left to do. 'It's all been done my parents did it,' they said."

Tying this attitude to the positive side of Selling America, De Vos laid bare the facts as to what is to be done and the opportunities awaiting each person under our great system of government.

"Every individual can find a job to do in this country," he said. Every job is important whether it requires a college education or not. A janitor's work is just as important to the whole as any other related business endeavor. For instance, how long would college people survive if there was no one to pick up the garbage from their trash cans?" he asked.

"Some people today are encouraging the myth that the guy who starts at the bottom doesn't believe he can go anywhere. I don't buy it because any man in any industry, who puts forth the effort can go to the top if he shows he's worthy of his hire," De Vos said.

"We fail to see that whole organizations are built from the concept that a person is worthy of what he does and his performance is what counts.

"Many companies like ours believe in the free enterprise system — that an individual who puts forth the efforts should get the reward. And why not? Isn't it the right way?"

Speaking of Russia, De Vos said that that country is doing pretty well with its propaganda machine. If you read what Russia has to say you would think it had America backed off the map, he said.

"Actually Russia can't grow enough wheat to take care of themselves.

"In order for us to be their equal we would have to abandon three fifths of our steel capacity, two-thirds of our petroleum capabilities, 95 per cent of our electric motor output, destroy two out of every three of our hydro-electric plants, get along on one tenth of our present volume of natural gas, rip up 14 of every 15 miles of our paved highways and two of every three miles of our mainline railroad tracks.

"Then if we would sink eight of every nine of our ocean-going ships, scrap 19 out of every 20 cars and trucks and shrink our civilian fleet to a shadow of its present size, cut our living standards three-fourths, destroy 40 million television sets, nine of every 10 telephones, seven of every 10 houses and then put 60 million of our people back on farms, we might come close to Russia's standard of living," De Vos said.

"What an age we live in," De Vos said. "This is the product of American ingenuity and opportunity. This is the result of free enterprise — where people can move freely. That makes people in the rest of the world cry in envy when they see the things we do.

"I wonder if we feel strongly enough about America and our way of life today; strongly enough to proudly sell it positively? Or have we inherited as the second generation the saying, 'well, that's the way it is, if you can't change it, it's all part of the game?'."

In conclusion De Vos asked his audience to keep in mind words spoken by our Ambassador from the Philippine Islands in his farewell speech to America.

Quoting from the ambassador's words, De Vos said, "I'm going home America, farewell. For 17 years I have enjoyed your hospitality, visited every one of your fifty states. I can say, I know you well. I admire and love America. Never forget Americans, that yours is a spiritual country. I know you are a practical people, but underlying everything else is the fact that America began as a God-loving, God-fearing, God-worshipping people, knowing that there is a spark of the divine in everyone of us. It is this respect for the dignity of the human spirit which makes America invincible.

"May God keep you always and may you always keep God."

De Vos is a well known speaker, having addressed many groups from coast to coast. Although he is only 38-years-old he has gained phenomenal success in the business world following his principles of advocating American private enterprise and all the advantages that go with it.

refuses?

"We'll fight it in Congress," the spokesman said.

Labor observers believe Johnson will be anxious to avoid antagonizing the AFL-CIO by an outright refusal. Some sources speculated Johnson might try for a compromise by supporting a lesser increase in the wage.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., of the House Labor Committee has pledged to seek an increase to $2 in three annual jumps of 25 cents.

Robustelli to Give More Work to Yanks

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — As soon as the New York Yankees become used to Andy Robustelli and his exercises, they'll get more work from the former New York Giant football star.

Robustelli, hired to get the Yankees in good physical condition this spring, gave the players a 12½-minute drill Thursday. The drill comprised 15 exercises, each lasting 45 seconds.

He said he will extend the drill to a minute for each of the 15 exercises within a few days "as soon as they get used to it."

'CONTROLLED' WAR

At a White House briefing for members of Congress arranged by the President, Secretary Rusk expounded on the so-called "controlled war" in Viet Nam.

According to the State Department chief's account, "Both sides are seeking to improve their military positions and appear intent on keeping the conflict carefully controlled during these probing operations."

"That's why I believe the war will grow," he added, "before there can be a negotiated settlement."

As an illustration of what is meant by "controlled war," Rusk cited the recent U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam targets, and the Hanoi-Peking "response" in countering only with anti-aircraft fire instead of fighter planes they have available.

"Is there any likelihood of negotiations in the near future?" asked a lawmaker.

"The initiative is up to Moscow and Peking," replied Rusk. "They are fully aware we are willing to sit down and talk things over. The next move is up to them.

In the meanwhile, we are doing everything we can to improve the military situation in South Viet Nam."

THE NECESSARY HEAT (?)

Defense Secretary McNamara was more explicit in his meetings with Foreign Minister Couve de Murville.

"We believe it will take several or more air strikes against North Vietnamese installations," McNamara said, "before the Communists are ready to negotiate on acceptable terms."

This premise was bluntly challenged by the French diplomat. He noted that the recent air strikes had no conciliatory effect on the Reds.

"They had a very salutary effect on the over-all situation," argued McNamara. "They helped immensely to stabilize the South Vietnamese government and to improve, the military morale there."

Within 24 hours after this claim, the latest coup-on-coup erupted.

At De Murville's next meeting with McNamara, he pointedly asked about the "stable government" pronouncement. The Pentagon chief made no reply, and De Murville tactfully did not press the matter.

TWISTING THEIR ARMS

One of the most significant backstage briefings took place in Vice President Humphrey's office near the floor of the Senate.

Humphrey convened this meeting at the express request of the President. Present was a group of Democratic senators who have been publicly urging negotiations to end the Viet Nam fighting.

They included Senators Frank Church, Idaho; Gale McGee, Wyo.; George McGovern, S. D.; Eugene McCarthy, Minn.; Stuart Symington, Mo.

Also on hand was McGeorge Bundy, special foreign affairs adviser to the President who was recently in South Viet Nam. He told the senators their advocacy of negotiations was "embarrassing" the President and hampering his dealing with this highly explosive situation.

"It's eminently inadvisable to attempt negotiations," contended Bundy, "until the South Viet Nam government is in a stronger military position and can take the lead in such discussions."

"If North Viet Nam and Red China take the same position," retorted one senator, "then we are on a head-on collision course."

"That's a calculated risk we have to take." asserted Bundy.

"Do you have a timetable for negotiations?" asked another senator.

"No, we do not. This is a day-to-day and week-to-week affair," said Bundy. "We are playing it by ear and watching each day's developments. There may have to be additional air strikes."

"What happens if North Viet Nam tries to improve its military position by sending a large number of regular ground forces into South Viet Nam?" asked a senator.

"We don't expect that to happen," declared Bundy flatly.

"Why not?"

"That's our considered judgment," was the answer.

Later, Senators Church and McGovern told other senators that Bundy's pronouncements had convinced them "we are on the right track in advocating negotiations."

"Nothing Bundy said changed my mind," declared McGovern. "Apparently, the administration wants to open negotiations, but hasn't found the way as yet how to do that."

THE ONE WHO DID IT

Former Undersecretary Averell Harriman, now ambassador-at-large, is the high State Department officials who cabled former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge congratulating him on the overthrow of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem. This came to light in closed-door hearings of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. It was revealed that several days before the anti-Diem coup, Harriman cabled Lodge that the U. would support the latter's overthrow. . .General David Shoup, retired commandant of the Marine Corps, is one military leader who is not writing a book and has no intention of doing so. Says plain-talking Shoup, Medal of Honor winner, "I may be along in years, but I'm living in the present and for the future."

officer identified as The Minutemen.

Detective Lt. Manuel Pena said that there was no indication Gilbert was responsible for the threats against Dr. King's life, but reported a tight security cordon had been thrown around the civil rights leader as a precaution.

Dr. King spoke to 2,000 guests at a World Affairs Council luncheon and then went Thursday night to a special benefit screening of "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

Pena said 30 plainclothes detectives had been assigned to the Hollywood Theater where the movie was shown, while 20 motorcycle policemen formed a ring around it. Each had a picture of Gilbert and license numbers of the cars he might be driving.

Similar security measures were taken at Dr. King's downtown hotel.

No announcement was made as to whether he would maintain the schedule which calls for him to speak at services in a Jewish temple in Hollywood tonight and before a Baptist congregation Sunday.

King plans to return Monday to Selma, Ala., for a renewal of his voter registration drive.

Automat Seeks 'Better Class' Of Customers

NEW YORK (AP) — The famed Horn & Hardart Automat Cafeteria on 42nd Street is going high hat — to get rid of drifters.

The cup of coffee customers are no longer welcome under a new policy aimed at what one manager calls "the better classes."

A black-tied gentleman, Leonard McCarthy, stands at the door greeting patrons and informing them there is a minimum charge of 20 cents per person. He also tosses out the undesirables.

It was possible before to just sit around and read a newspaper — or to keep warm on a cold day in the cafeteria between 7th and 8th Avenues.

Another change eliminates slipping nickels into the glass food cases. They open with a twist of the knob, but you have to pay up when you reach the cashier at the end of the line.

And your order has to be at least 20 cents.

ble. And a negotiation which simply ends in bitterness and hostility merely adds to the danger."

At another point Rusk said: "The heart of the problem is an assault upon the safety and the territorial integrity and independence of South Viet Nam. If that is relieved and removed, then things can begin to move.

"That is why we have forces out there. They could come home tomorrow if that problem had not been created by aggression. They never would have been there in the first place."

Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai said Wednesday no settlement of the Indochinese crisis can be reached without the complete, immediate and unconditional withdrawal of U.S. military forces from the area. Chou blamed the United States for all the trouble in North and South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

The Soviet Union and France said Wednesday they favor a conference on Viet Nam, but U.N. sources said Britain reflected the U.S. coolness to the idea.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told newsmen in Washington Thursday the use of American-manned warplanes against the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam represents no shift in policy.

"Our policy has not changed in the slightest," he said. "Our tactics and equipment have changed."

In Chicago, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon urged round the clock American naval and air bombardment of bases in North Viet Nam to stop the flow of arms to Red guerrillas in the South. He urged President Johnson to adopt such a course and then call a summit conference of free Asian nations to explain the purpose of U.S. policy in South Viet Nam.

Thant issued a statement Thursday seeking to clarify a remark at his news conference Wednesday that the American people, if they knew the facts, would agree that further bloodshed is unecessary in Viet Nam, and that negotiations alone could create conditions which would enable the United States to withdraw from that part of the world.

Thant said he had no intention of suggesting that Americans are not well informed or that the U.S. government was withholding information. He said he had in mind that "inevitably the stress in the news is on the pursuit of the war, account of victories and setbacks over, for example, such factors as the great suffering of the people of the Republic of Viet Nam."

Rusk told his news conference he does not know of "any situation anywhere in the world on which the American people have been better informed, in more detail, on a current basis, both by officials and by the intensive effort of a vigorous and free press, than is the case with respect to Viet Nam."

U.S. Jet Bombers Still Hammering Cong Targets

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, and the commander of the 1st Corps, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi.

Saigon police have begun rounding up organizers of a new "peace movement" claiming a number of prominent persons as members. The police think the organization, which calls itself the "Movement of People's Self-Determination," is a Viet Cong front.

A wave of peace marches and demonstrations is expected by intelligence agencies. The demonstrations are expected to include anti-American banners.

North Viet Nam today called the U.S. jet missions against Viet Cong guerrillas "massacres" and charged they violate the 1954 Geneva armistice for Indochina. Radio Hanoi said the United States was committing "extremely serious acts" by carrying out the missions.

In Bangkok, the United States and Thailand anounced they would hold a joint amphibious landing exercise March 12-26 on the southern beaches of Thailand. They said it would be closely coordinated with a counter insurgency exercise now being held in Thailand.

U.S. Navy sources said the landing exercise has been scaled down considerably because of the heightened tensions in South Viet Nam.

An employe of the store told police the revolver was in a display case at the back of the store. He said it would have been necessary for anyone taking the weapon to either reach across the counter and through the back of the counter to pick it up, or have it out on display.

The weapon is a Ruger .22 caliber single six with "fast draw" holster.

Curious Side Effects Seen On Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television, now emerging from adolescence to maturity, has made a fantastic impact on the nation's habits —greater, perhaps, than most people realize.

In addition to the medium's major contributions in enlightening and elevating, there have been some curious side effects.

For instance, television has turned me into a compulsive weather-worrier. In the good old days of radio, I would hear my favorite morning reader of headlines announce calmly that the day would be fair and cold, or warm and rainy. And after a reassuring glance out of the window, I would clothe myself accordingly and get about the business of the day.

Nowadays, I find myself anxiously scanning the "Today Show's" weather maps, noting the alarming arrows ominous cloud covers, snow and rain warnings. And instead of being grateful for today's sunshine, I find myself fearfully anticipating tomorrow's blizzard — which often never arrives.

At this moment I am not certain whether my failure to be a popular member of the local jet set is caused by the fact that I use an ineffective mouth wash that tastes like soda pop, or that my hair is both tell-tale gray and does what it wants to do — or that my choice of toothpase is a mistake. The fact is that I just can't decide whether I want pearly teeth or freedom from cavities.

I keep wondering if I'd be invited on romantic walks in the country, beach parties and ski lodges if I switched to another brand of cigarettes.

I can't really decide, because my TV instructors are being very subtle and delicate on this point right now, whether my status as a real sophisticate would not be improved if I took up cigar smoking. Those sleek, chic girls, filmed in glamorous discotheques, obviously are all secret cigar-puffers.

Am I using the wrong cooking oil? Is that why no one ever asks for my recipe for egg-plant fritters? Would I be elected president of my investment club if I changed my deodorant? Would I get a raise if my eyelashes were longer? Or my golf improve if I remedied my iron-poor blood?

Let better brains than mine worry about the big TV PROBLEMS — whether "The Fugitive" will ever get caught or the "Bonanza" boys get married, or "the Man from U.N.C.L.E.'s" side-kick Illya ever get a hair cut. I have more important, personal things to agonize over.

Actress Gives Birth to Boy

ROME (AP) — French actress Juliete Mayniel, a companion of Italian actor Vittorio Gassman, is the mother of a 5-pound boy, born Tuesday night at a Rome clinic.

Miss Mayniel said Thursday night: "We are both doing very well. Vittorio is working and is very busy but still manages to come to see us."

She said she and Gassman would like to marry but cannot wed in Italy because he still is married to Nora Ricci.

By TED LEWIS

Washington — Considering there are so few of them, the effective way in which Congressional Republicans are throwing their weight around is politically important.

It had been anticipated that if a new GOP image was going to be developed after last November's election debacle, the projection would show at the Congressional level.

But there had been no expectation that it would be so forceful and imaginative as it now is. The credit mainly is given to the leadership team of Sen. Everett Dirksen (Ill.) and Rep. Gerald Ford (Mich.) The two threw support of Senate and House wings of the party behind President Johnson's stepped-up policy in Viet Nam at a time when Democratic Congressional leaders were vacillating. The Dirksen-Ford stand pointed up the dimensions of the policy split within the President's own party.

But this has been only one area in which Congressional Republicans have grabbed the ball.

They have come up with imaginative alternatives to key Great Society programs. House Republicans, for example, have decided to offer a significant substitute for the Senate passed Apalachia aid bill.

This $1 billion Administration measure basically was designed to improve the economy of the Appalachian region which extends from Tennessee into Pennsylvania. The GOP bill, as drafted by such House Republicans as William C. Cramer (Fla.) and Robert C. McEwen (N.Y.) would provide assistance to any area in any of the 50 states which qualify under the "have - not" criterion.

Its sponsors argue (and this is bound to have voter appeal) that the Democratic proposal gives preferred treatment to one poverty stricken region and so discriminates against other areas through the nation with equal poverty problems.

They have pointed out that many of the 360 counties in the Appalachia region named to receive federal aid under the President's program are quite prosperous.

Some Democrats Could Be in Trouble

This Republican bill may not get anywhere because of the preponderant Democratic strength in the House (294 Democrats, 140 Republicans, one vacancy outside the Appalachia belt, and with economic sore spots in their districts, could be in trouble in the 1966 elections if they vote the LBJ line.

That of course, is the main intent of the Republican maneuver anyway. They want to develop every issue possible which will have voter appeal in the off-year elections.

House Republicans similarly have made a move to reap political benefits from the Administration's housing program. Under Rep. William B. Widnall (R-N.J.), they are proposing to continue, not discontinue as the White House has urged, the present nonprofit housing program for elderly persons.
would earmark $250 million (compared with the Administration's 50 million) for rehabilitation loans to aid tenants, home owners and small businessmen so they may renew their own property and meet housing code standards.

'Obstruction Charges Dont Hold Up

The constructive GOP alternatives to the Administration's housing and Applachia programs give the lie to Democratic "obstructionist" charges.

And as other Great Society legislation develops during the present sessoon, the Republican leadership plans to force votes on similar issues which they hope will have voter appeal in 1966. In this legislative area is the $1.5 billion war on poverty package, medicare and the controversial aid-to-education program.

These maneuvers to improve the GOP image point up the fact that any Republican political ascendancy in Presidential 1968 depends almost wholly on a party victory in the next Congressional elections.

The Dirksen - Ford team, in looking ahead, see the possibility of party advantage in a whole vista of legislative challenges. For instance, if the Johnson effort to solve the gold outflow problem with only halfway measures fails, the Republicans would be in a position to shout "too little, too late."

And by urging a strong stand in Viet Nam, the Republicans are in a splendid political stance should Johnson's policy shift at the edge of brinkmanship.

GOP National Committee Frozen Out

All of these partisan moves flow out of the Congressional wing of the Republican Party — their policy committees in House and Senate and their campaign committees. The Republican National Committee figures little in these activities. What the organized Congressional Republicans do in facing up to the next House and Senate elections puts them in operational control of party fortunes. It makes slight difference whether th GOP national chairman is outgoing Dean Burch or incoming Ray Bliss.

All of Dirksen's clever little efforts to put the President on the spot do not have to be cleared with the party's national headquarters, such as his latest teaser — when he proposed that national elections, Congressional and Presidential, be held on the first Sunday in November instead of the traditional Tuesday after the first Monday.

Obviously Johnson is not going to ask Congress for this change. But by bringing the matter up, Dirksen has posed a delicate religious question which he clearly hopes the President may find difficult to sidestep without some political embarrassment.

In this same electoral reform area the Republicans are also planning to make hay with the President's Constitutional amendment prpoosal aimed at requiring Presidential electors to vote for the candidates carrying their respective states.

What the Republicans have in mind is to expand this proposal into a significant electoral reform amendment.

David Niven Says He Is Not Complaining

LONDON (AP)—"Who's complaining?" asked David Niven. "I move out of Francoise Dorleac's bedroom in one picture, straight into the arms Sophia Loren in another picture."

That was actor Niven's reaction to the unusual and arduous assignment of making two major movies at the same time.

One picture, titled "Lady L," is being made in Paris, Nice and Geneva.

The other, a spy thriller called "Where the Spies Are," is being filmed in London and Beirut.

Niven teams with Sophia Loren in "Lady L," and with the French actress Francoise Dorleac in "Where the Spies Are."

Natural Gas Found Cause Of Explosion

An accumulation of natural gas, which had pocketed under the front portion of the Bessie Myers' residence at Florence, was believed to have caused the explosion last Thursday which completely demolished the five-room dewlling and sent Mrs. Myers to a hospital in critical condition, it was announced this week by officials of the Plateau Natural Gas company in Colorado Springs.

Gas company officials released a full statement this week following an intensive investigation into the explosion and fire which took place at 3:25 p..m. Feb. 18.

Mrs. Myers, now recuperating from her harrowing experience at St. Mary-Corwin hospital, is reported to be recovering from the accident.

In its statement this week, Plateau officials noted that "a broken threaded fiting was discovered in the alley north of the Myers' property. Careful examination of the broken fitting revealed that the break was of a recent date. The contraction and expansion of the ground, during the recent cold spell, was believed to have caused the fitting to break."

It was also noted that repairs were made immediately on the gas company's facilities. Only the one broken connection was found in the alley, however, all service lines and the main line were replaced.

Plateau Gas company further stated that it had completed an investigation into the explosion at the Myers' home and that "an independent combusion engineer conducted and supervised the investigation.

Both local and district gas company officials took part in the probe.

Damage to the house and property was in excess of $5,000 Mrs. Myers, pulled from the wreckage by neighbors, was first taken to St. Joseph hospital for emergency treatment and later transferred to the Pueblo hospital.

Dan Friend, chief of the Florence fire department, conducted the probe for the city.

Hunt for Nazis To Be Continued

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government today changed its mind about giving up the hunt for Nazi murderers and said it would help Parliament to see justice done.

The Cabinet agreed unanimously. Erhard's spokesman said, that contrary to what had been thought up to now it is possible that new crimes may be discovered after May 8. Under present law, the hunt for Nazi murderers would end on that date, since virtually no prosecutions could be undertaken after it.

Nikita May Get New Apartment

MOSCOW (AP) — The address is No. 21 Starokonyushenny Pereuluk, Apt. 57, and three 17-year-old residents of the building say it's Nikita Khrushchev's new building.

The building superintendent says it isn't.

Other adults living in the eight-story apartment building next door to the Canadian Embassy wouldn't talk.

Khrushchev's wife, Nina, and a daughter have been there several times fixing up the fifth-floor quarters, believed to be a six-room apartment.

"I know nothing about it," said a man who identified himself as the "commandant" of the building. "He hasn't been here once and I haven't any information that he will be."

Khrushchev has been reported living in the country 17 miles west of Moscow since he was ousted from office on Oct. 14.

'Kingmakers' Lose Among Conservatives

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservative party from now on will select its party chief by vote of the Tory members of the House of Commons rather than by so-called "kingmakers" in private conferences.

The party's leader, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, conceived the plan. It reportedly has the unanimous support of his shadow cabinet — the other party leaders in Parliament — and strong backing among the rank and file.

The choice of the Commons members will be submitted to a party congress, but ratification is expected to be a formality. There is no indication, however, when Sir Alec will step down.

The new method grew out of protests over the choice of Sir Alec to succeed Harold MacMillan when the later resigned in the fall of 1963.

Communists Cannot Compete With Public Understanding, Capt. Says

Ultimate victory in the struggle with communism will go to the side that wins the battle for the minds of men, said Navy Capt. Carl F. Pfeifer in a National Security Seminar lecture.

"In a democracy," he added, vital decisions must be made only with the wide understanding and support of the people."

"This kind of public understanding is something in which the communist cannot compete — because it means having the capability and willingness to enter into public debate, he stated.

The captain listed these three guide posts for Americans as he lectured on the topic, "Public Opinion."

— Freedom is not free. It never has been. It must be earned and re-earned.

— The Soviet Union knows what it wants to do and seems to work harder at it.

— "Unless we stand for something, we will fall for anything."

The nature of public opinion has long been an elusive thing to define, he explained, but an attempt must be made to describe it or it cannot by analyzed.

The captain cited two propositions that have been put forward:

— The public opinion is the position that a majority of people have about a certain issue at a given time.

— That public opinion is a concentrated effort from a small minority who claim they represent the public.

"By definition," the captain said, "public opinion is an attitude of mind, which finds expression either in the words or actions of a group of people on a specific idea or subject, at a particular time."

Pfeifer pointed out that there is a need for an enlightened public, for the public will have its opinion on a subject. "A giant though ignorant is still a giant and has the strength of a giant," Pfeifer said, allowing that it is better to educate the giant.

The captain said that American public opinion is formed by:

— Conditioning — (a) contacts with persons and groups in everyday life; (b) entertainmem and news media; (c) religious background; (d) sectional thinking.

— Prejudice — (a) opinion without honest basis, and (b) acquired through association. Prejudice is very difficult to throw off, he explained.

— Influence of Old World customs and traditions. "Former national ties are not easily thrown off. Ethnic groups put pressure on government."

"A strong moral fibre is one of the requirements for a strong nation," he said, and added that the situation where the people know the price of everything and the value of nothing is not good.

The Founding Fathers were concerned with public opinion, he stated and cited from the Declaration of Independence.

While public opinion has always had a place in democracy, a statesman must lead, and not wait and see what the people want him to do, Pfeifer said.

He pointed out that a man bent over so that his ear is on the ground is not in a position to lead.

There are time when public opinion has to catch up with leadership, he stated and pointed to three instances:

— President Harry Truman's response to communist attack in Korea in 1950.

— President Dwight Eisenhower's move to send Marines into Lebanon in 1958.

— President John F. Kennedy beefed up American forces in the Berlin Crisis in 1961. "The president led, but at the same

City Official Disagrees With AAA Stand

City Traffic Engineer Donald Smith disagrees with the Rocky Mountain AAA's opposition to reflectorized license plates.

AAA President Clarence Wertham said this week that a bill before the state legislature to require reflector plates was a "Mickey Mouse gimmick" which would cost motorists in Colorado an additional $300,000 a year. He added that reflectorizing plates would accomplish nothing that was not already provided for.

"Safety engineers are a rather conservative bunch," Smith said, "They are not given to endorsement of Mickey Mouse gimmicks."

Smith said it would cost about 25 cents per set to reflectorize plates. "I don't think any motorists would be absolutely staggered under the cost," he said.

He pointed out that 17 states use reflector plates, including Woming, New Mexico and North and South Dakota.

Smith said plates could be reflectorized, when made by prisoners in Canon City, by three processes: paint, a film, or small glass beads. The Colorado Springs Traffic Engineering Department uses a film on many of its signs. It is reflectorized and sometimes already printed for applying on a metal blank.

The bill before the legislature was introduced by Rep. Theodore Schubert (R-El Paso County). It proposed a 25 - cent fee met by license purchases.

Smith gave Schubert the idea for the measure and also contacted other El Paso County legislators, Gov. John A. Love, the State Patrol chief and others.

"In my opinion," Smith said, "This type of license plate adds a very desirable piece of additional safety equipment" and would reduce rear - end collisions.

Liquor License Request Is Withdrawn Here

El Paso County's three commissioners Thursday voted unanimously in favor of a request to withdraw a petition for a liquor license.

Checkered Flag Corp. had first made application for the license on Feb. 11 and had the case continued until Thursday. At that time, and after spending $650, the corporation decided it did not want the license after all and asked to have the petition withdrawn.

Checkered Flag Corp. now owns the Harbor Inn, on North Nevada Avenue, but does not have a liquor license. The license of the previous owner has lapsed during the interim.

Of the $650 in costs paid by Checkered Flag, the corporation will get back $350. The remaining was used for investigation purposes and, under law, cannot be returned.

The corporation's attorney, Eugene Perkins, did not appear at the hearing, but instead sent a letter requesting withdrawal of the petition. no reasons were given for the withdrawal.

Monday Is Deadline for Rabies Shots

Dog owners in El Paso County were reminded again today that their animals have to be vaccinated against rabies before next Monday.

Dr. M. F. Schafer, country health officer, said all dogs six months or older have to be vaccinated.

These vaccinations can be obtained at the veternarian of the dog owner's choice. All dogs should be wearing the new green rabies tab by next Monday. The tags are the same throughout the state.

There have been no rabies cases in the country for several years, but Dr. Schaver said the vaccinations are the best way to insure that none occur.

Careless Driving Charge Dimissed in City Court

A careless driving charge dismissed Thursday by Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher against a man who said he was not a "gifted speaker" and chose to represent himself for economy reasons.

Judge Asher complimented the defendant, James Sloan, 45, 1711 Clemson Dr., for a "very adequate presentation" of his case, and reduced the charge to a warning ticket.

Gerald Harris, 2525 Bonfoy St., had testified that on Feb. 14, while driving in the right lane on Fillmore Street a half-block from Templeton Gap Road, Sloan had passed him in the left lane. He said Sloan slowed to allow two cars to make left turns, and when he tried to pass him on the right, he was forced to the roadway shoulder to avoid hitting Sloan.

Sloan explained that Fillmore's four traffic lanes divide into two on the other side of Templeton Gap. Cars on the right usually turn right, he said, and this was what he thought Harris intended. He said Harris tried to pass him on the right, dropped back, then tried to pass him on the left, but again dropped back because of oncoming traffic.

"I contend he and not I was the careless driver," he said.

Judge Asher's viewpoint was that Sloan was "guilty of some lack of courtesy" and should have let Harris into the right lane.

"If I had yielded to him," Sloan said, "where would I have gone?"

The judge reasoned that when he saw Harris had got himself in a cul-de-sac, he should have stopped.

Billy Yandle, 16, 805 S. Tejon St., was also charged on a civilian complaint, with reckless and careless driving.

Mrs. Clyde Searles testified that on Feb. 6, while she and her husband Col. Searles, were walking in the alley back of Pettigrew's Auction House, they heard the sound of a car behind them coming north at a speed they estimated later at between 35 and 40 miles an hour.

"In fright, I jumped to the side and called to my husband to jump," Mrs. Searles said, "as the car passed us, it sprayed us completely with mud."

She said they entered the auction house where her husband called police. When the police arrived, they went outside and saw the car at Garth's. "We listened as the officer talked to the boy," she said, "and his manner was generally sullen and he seemed unrepentent for what he'd done."

Yandle said he was looking over his shoulder, fearful that some boys were following him. He said he didn't see the couple, nor the water, but his passenger told him he had splashed them. "I was going back to apologize," he said, "but they must have been in Pettigrew's calling the police. The reason I didn't apologize was these people had a poor attitude about it." The boy added that he saw no mud on their clothes, just two damp spots.

Mrs. Searles said they had been loaned towels at Pettigrew's and had cleaned themselves off; further, that she wasn't concerned about a cleaning bill, but was worried about the boy's driving.

"If I thought you splashed them deliberately," the judge told Yandle, "it would go seriously for you."

He dismissed the reckless charge, "reluctantly," he said, found Yandle guilty of careless driving, and imposed a $25 fine.

In a companion case, Judge Asher found Louise McDonald, 29, 139 Hayman St., guilty of improper lane usage and imposed a $10 fine, and found Charles Orange, 20, Fountain, not guilty of careless driving.

Larry Olson, 18, 1401 Delaware Dr., was fined $15 on his guilty plea to careless driving.

John Setelin, 21, Ft. Carson, was fined $50 on his guilty plea to reckless driving. Judge Asher suspended $25 on condition Setelin attends the March 17 traffic lecture and has no violations for the remainder of the year. Thomas Tilker, 16, 2211 Chelton Rd., had a $10 fine suspended on the same conditions. The boy pleaded guilty to disobeying a traffic signal.

Esequel Rodriquez, 39, 123½ S. Cascade Ave., was fined $25 on his guilty plea to a drunk charge.

CU Professor Will Speak to Forum Saturday

A CU professor will speak to a luncheon meeting of the El Paso County Democratic Forum Saturday.

Reuben A. Zubrow, professor of economics at the University of Colorado, will give an analysis of the governor's proposed tax measures and will outline some of his own suggestions for the improvement of Colorado's tax policies.

Zubrow was a tax consultant to former Gov. Steve McNichols and produced the studies that led to the McNichols tax program. He is currently acting as an adviser to the Democratic members of the state legislature on tax matters.

The luncheon is scheduled for 12:15 p.m. at the Alamo Hotel. Everyone is invited but reservations are requested. For reservations call 633-2326.

THREE INJURED—Three persons were injured as the result of this crash at Galley Road and Querida Drive Thursday. Richard Stanley Sorby, 44, 12 El Sereno St., suffered minor contusions on his back. Two Sorby children, Vickie Lea, 6, and Stephan, 9, also were injured. Stephan had a laceration on his upper lip, while Vickie Lea suffered contusions on her forehead and the back of her neck. All three persons were taken to Penrose Hospital by E & E Ambulance, treated there and released. The accident occured at 4:16 p.m. Thursday when Sorby, northbound on Querida Dr., collided with a car driven by Ronald P. Woody, 32, 1934 Mid Road. Woody told police that just prior to the collision the sun blinded him and he didn't see the Sorby vehicle in time to avoid the crash. Both cars had between $250 and $500 damage. National Security Carries With It Risking Loss of Life, Speaker Says

Management of national security carries with it the heavy responsibility of risking and possibly expending human life, Col. Burton C. Andrus, Air Force, said in a National Secuity Seminar lecture.

The colonel said that throughout man's history the fundamental "decision making" and "decision execution" phases of the management process have been essential to all successful human accomplishment.

"Thanks to science and technology, we live in a good world, a world of planes traveling faster than sound, nuclear powered submarines, space vehicles, television, air conditioning, better cars and other advanced products," he said.

However, to keep this fine world, "we must manage our national security to maintain our needed combat capability, and the management starts at the top level," Andrus pointed out.

The colonel described management as "a process of organizing and employing resources to accomplish pre-determined objectives."

The first fact to take into consideration in defense management is that it must be compatible with:

6 — International diplomacy, which does not remain constant.

— Scientific and technological resources available to the nation today and tomorrow.

— The economic resources of the country.

— The human resources, the size and potential productivity of the population.

— Psychological and ideological factors, which do not remain constant.

The principles of management are the same for military as non-military affairs and should be clear and straightforward, he said.

One of the problems of managing the national security is that it is constantly influenced by outside factors. Also the only true test of the efficiency of the management is on the battle field, and that is a testing laboratory no one wants, Andrus declared.

Management tasks are carried on simultaneously and each task represents a changing and continuous process, he said.

He listed these 13 points as an outline of the management task:

— Define the objectives.
— Plan the programs.
— Build an organization.
— Install procedures.
— Procure funds.
— Staff the organization.
— Provide information.
— Analyze information.
— Adjust and improve the program as analyzation shows it is needed.
— Motivate the organization.
— Provide facilities and supplies.
7—Maintain external relationships.
— Make the decisions and issue the orders.

Robert S. McNamara, former president of Ford Motor Co., who became secretary of defense in January 1961 when the Kennedy Administration took office, introduced a new approach to managing the national defense, Andrus said.

In the McNamara approach, a provisional objective is established, then a course of action is proposed to attain that objective.

Next, alternative plans are set up and the plans compared to determine what is best, he explained.

As an example, Andrus said that the provisional objective of intercepting 95 per cent of the intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM) in a projected attack might be established.

The task then is to determine if such a percentage is possible and if a system designed to do that job is within the economic and technological potential of the country.

In the end, some feasible objective for intercepting ICBMs would be established, though not necessarily at the same level as first proposed.

Next would come planning and programming for that objective. This would be subjected to continuing analysis.

A continuing cycle of objectives, planning, programming and analysis is thus established, Andrus explained.

The nation has made great advances in governmental management including these:

— Strengthening of the presidency, done through the Bureau of the Budget, the Council of Economic Advisers, and other federal agencies.

— Strengthening of the departmental heads of governmental agencies.

— Constant improvements in organizational and management methods. This was done partly by the use of assistant secretaries who are charged with particular fields of responsibility.

— Improved personnel practices. Instead of simply taking the best of those who are seeking employment at the time, efforts are made to recruit people.

— More emphasis has been placed on the operating official, who is expected to make the decisions within this field.

The country's security management has become a bigger task during this century because:

—American isolationism ended and the nation became more involved with the rest of the world.

— The country has seen a large urban growth, along with industrial and technological development.

— The country's population more than doubled, bringing with it economic and social shifts.

As technology has changed, so has the time allowed for preparing for a national emergency, he said.

"Now there is no time to prepare for a war. The nation must manage its national security so that it is always ready," Andrus stated.

New dimensions have been created in management science, based partly on automatic date processing and electronic computers, he explained.

A system developed by the Navy gave it a new tool for management as it developed the Polaris weapons system. The Navy development was called PERT, for Progress Evaluation Review Technique.

A national plan for emergency management has been developed by the Office of Emergency Planning. This plan was tested in part about a year ago when a large and strong earthquate struck Alaska, and it worked very well, Andrus declared.

A plan has to been worked out for cold war, limited war and general war applications, he explained.

While man is working out new systems of management and putting greater reliance on computers and data processing, there is a certain danger there, Andrus said.

"Output of the computers cannot be any better than the input," he said.

"The brilliant answers to problems, the unique approaches to tasks, are not likely to come out of computers because such projections are not fed into them," he said.

Communication Problems Aired By UF Worker

The inability to communicate meaningfully was cited as the most frequent problem which brings families to the Family Counseling Service for help.

Walter Cogswell, caseworker for this United Fund agency, spoke Thursday during the first in a series of six programs on family living, sponsored by the YWCA, Family Counseling Service and the Mental Health Association.

Registrations may still be made for the remaining five lectures to be held each Thursday afernoon from 1:30 p.m. until 3 p.m. A small registration fee is charged and free nursery service is provided for the pre - school children of women class members.

Cogswell explained his meaning of communications as "a sharing of ideas, emotions and thoughts in a manner which is understood by the members of the family."

Common blocks to clear communication are excessive emotion, anger, depression and frustration, according to Cogswell.

"Many times a couple fails to communicate because they fear the consequences. It may provoke a fight. Actually it's better to start a fight than to let a problem linger unsolved for weeks on end," he said.

He criticized parents and teachers who require that a child not show his emotions. He cited an example of a boy who is too big to cry.

"This individual may learn to isolate thimself so well that we are never able to reach him," he said.

In answer to a question from the audience concerning the services of Family Counseling Service, Cogswell pointed out that the agency serves families living in the area covered by the United Fund, whic his most of El Paso County. Families with problems are welcome to make an appointment. Fees are arranged with the family on the basis of income and number of dependents. These range from nothing to $10 per hour. He pointed out that the fees are kept within the reach of everyone because of the allocation of the United Fund.

Another question from the floor concerned rearing of teenagers. The mother asked if a breakdown in communications is inevitable when children reach adolescence. Cogswell replied that the only thing inevitable is increasing desire for more freedom by the teenager.

"If parents and children have communicated well before the child reaches adolescence they will probably continue to communicate well, although, of course, they won't always agree," he concluded.

$75 Taken From Room Police Say

An apartment was burglarized of $75 in cash between Feb. 19 and Thursday, police reported.

Patricia A. Reynolds, 1014 Swope Ave., told police she and her husband left the city Feb. 19 and didn't return until Thursday. She said she left $75 in cash in a checkbook, and left the checkbook in her purse. She said the purse was on her dresser when she left the apartment.

Mrs. Reynolds said she was sure the door to the apartment was locked when she left Friday, because her husband checked it twice. Police could find no signs of forced entry into the apartment, according to the report.

AFA Instructor Top Shot at C. City Meet

Grant Gruver, an instructor at the United States Air Force Academy, took top honors at the 27th annual Best Match held in Canon City last weekend at the Colorado State Pententiary rifle range.

There were 36 top shooters participating in the match, coming from Canon City, Castle Rock, Uravan, Telluride, Monument, Penrose, Colorado Springs, and Bird City, Kan. Competition was close in all events with .22 caliber rifles being used.

Seminar Speaker Cites Fallout Shelter Need

Fallout shelters could help about half of the nation's population live through an all - out nuclear attack Lt. Co. LeRoy R. Waterman, Air Force, said in a National Security Seminar lecture on "Civil Dfense."

In an attack on the United States, many would die if there were not fallout shelters and these deaths would be a gift to the enemy, he stated.

Further, the lives that could be saved by fall - out shelters could be the difference between recovery and defeat, the colonel said.

"Fall - out shelters which provide protection against radiation hazards can reduce casualties from an all - out nuclear attack by 65 million people, thus permitting about one half of the population to survive," he said.

What is civil defense? he asked, and then answered:

—It is a concept for survival.

—It is a plan for action in time of emergency.

Responsibility for civil defense rests upon:

—Regularly constituted government at every level.

—The nation's people.

A good civil defense posture is made up of more than shelters, he said, and listed these five additional factors:

—Stockpiles of materials.

—Government continuity at every level.

—Warning systems.

—Organizations and plans.

—Industrial emergency plans.

"After an attack, it is the job of civil defense to help the nation get back on its feet; and to maintain the will of the people to fight and win the war that may be thrust upon us," the colonel said.

The current attitude toward civil defense is one of confusion and indifference, he said.

Before 1961, it was one of indifference and since then there have been surges of interest with each crisis, the colonel explained.

America demobilized its forces after World War II in the belief that she was living in a world of friendly powers, but the Soviet Union did not disarm, and in 1949 it detonated its first atomic bomb, and soon after that began to create a delivery system of missiles, he explained.

The Kennedy administration, which took office on Jan. 20, 1961, took a strong stand on civil defense. The government said that fallout shelters would provide protection to keep many people alive.

Others were against such plans and there was no clear picture. President Kennedy said that fall - out shelters could make the difference, but other voices said the idea was no good, and nothing was done, Waterman said.

"Had guidance been clear, had the people agreed that fallout shelters were needed, the country probably would have a program right now," he stated.

Three things developed from all of the claims and counterclaims:

—The public heard lots of claims with no final authority being recognized.

—The home shelter program slowed down.

—Many people now have an indifferent attitude.

As the country developed a somewhat larger interest in civil defense, the Kennedy administration put civil defense operations under the office of the secretary of defense, said Waterman.

Later, the office was moved to the office of the secretary of the Army but not given to the Department of the Army so that the secretary could give it his pesonal attention.

The country does have defense weaknesses, the colonel said.

—125 million people live in urban areas, 33 million of them in 41 cities.

—50 cities have 71 per cent of the defense production and capacity, and 54 per cent of the industrial workers.

—25 cities have 78 per cent of the petroleum products plants, and 58 per cent of the financial transactions of the nation.

—Half of the sea commerce is handled in six port cities.

—About four - fifths of the present growth in the nation is in metropolitan areas.

Waterman said there are three deadly factors of an atomic bomb: the blast, the heat from the blast, and nuclearradiation.

Whatever antimissile defense the nation arms itself with will be effective to a certain extent, but anyone caught in the blast or the heat of the blast will die.

Radiation could kill millions, but need not, he stated.

Fallout is radioactive particles that were lofted into the atmosphere by the blast and then return to earth at various times, loaded with radioactive material — gamma rays, which penetrate deeply.

The important factor about fall - out is that it decays fairly rapidly. Every seven hours the radiation decreases by 90 per cent, Waterman explained.

Protective measures other evacuation, which doesn't seem

Shielding from structures can than fall - out shelters are practical, and blast shelters, which the country is working on.

help stop gamma rays:

—First floor of the house reduces the hazard one half.

—Basement of house reduces the hazard to one-tenth.

—Improvised basement refuge rdeuces the hazard to 1-100th.

—High grade fallout shelter reduces the hazard to 1-5000th.

The current federal program is based on the Federal Civilian Defense Act of Jan. 12, 1951. This included the stockpile program, the acquisition of emergency hospitals, the civil defense instructional program and the continuity of the government program.

The present program is aimed at fallout protection only, the colonel said.

The emphasis now is away from family fallout shelters and toward community shelters, he said, pointing out that the cost per unit is lower.

Where shelters are built and scheduled to be stocked at public expense, they must meet three standards:

—Be open to the public.

—Be able to accommodate no fewer than 50 people.

—Be able to reduce by 1-40th the outside radiation.

In provisioning shelters, each person should have a two-week supply of food, water, and clothing, flashlights, a radio, basic sanitary items, a radiation detector, and a dosimeter, he said.

There appear to be three principal reasons why civil defense preparations are not progressing as well as they should, the colonel stated.

—The first is procrastination. We don't do today what should be done in order to be ready for tomorrow.

"Second, people are hoping and praying that there won't be a Third World War, and have convinced themselves that it just won't happen.

"We all share in those hopes and prayers, but we also have an obligation to ourselves and the nation, to do those things that are humanely possible to reduce the likelihood of war and minimize the damage, should it come."

"Third, many people believe that an atomic war would be so devastating and horrible that nothing could be done about it anyway."

Waterman said, "Such thinking is defeatist and unrealistic. There are many things that can be done. Survival following an attack will be proportional to the planning and effort made to provide an effective defense."

He pointed out that the Russian civil defense program is different.

"They treat it as part of their over - all national defense program. It is a priority program, it is an integral part of the military defense, along - term program. They recognize that a nuclear stalemate between the United States and Russia could be tipped in their favor if they had a superior civil defense program."

The nation cannot afford to have a defeatist attitude about civil defense, he stated.

"Our greatest need," Waterman said, "is a strong will to survive."

There are five possible decisions that the people can take about the civil defense program:

—Decide they don't need a program and do nothing.

—Decide they do need a program, and start on family shelters.

—Decide they do need shelters and organize neighborhoods.

—Decide they do need a program and plan a public shelter program.

—Look to Uncle Sam.

The last is not in the American tradition, he said.

"The men and women who built this country had strong wills and determination not to die uselessly, and they didn't look to Uncle Sam for everything," he said.

"A civil defense shelter program could make the difference between a knockout blow and eventual national recovery and it is up to the citizen to decide," Waterman stated.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

Della and Harry found their marriage growing stodgy and unromantic, due largely to reduced erotic vigor. This, in turn, was largely a result of their obesity, so notice how they banished divorce within a few weeks and had a second honeymoon. Church women, too, can add $1,000 to their Easter offering by the plan below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE V-423: Harry and Della (weighing 215 and 147) started on the dehydration diet.

If you wish to insure your erotic vigor (romance) and also be able to show off your new Eastern outfit attractively, join them.

If you employ a bathroom spring scales, remember that your weight is almost two pounds more at night than in the morning, so weigh yourself at the same time each day.

During the night you exhale about one pound of moisture in your breath.

You can appreciate this by noting how much moisture condenses on a cold winter window pane when you exhale.

With Harry on 1,200 calories and Della on 800, they were down to 203 and 137, respectively after 10 days.

Then they shifted to Diet No. 2, as per the booklet below, whereon their caloric quota was increased to 1,600 and 1,200 respectively.

During those first 10 days they were on a reduced liquid intake. But that's what pulls your weight down so refreshingly and thus encourages you to continue on Diet No. 2, starting with the 11th day.

Moreover, don't set unduly large goals for yourself.

Imitate the members of Alcoholics Anonymous who don't strive to remain sober for a year or a month or even a week.

"I'm going to stay dry just for today!" is their motto.

Next morning, they "bite off" just one more day of sobriety.

In dieting, look at the 5-pound marker on your bathroom scales.

"Harry," I advised, "you have done nobly in getting down to 203, so now set your goal at breaking that 200-mark."

And I urged Della just to focus on slipping beneath that 135-mark.

Within another month, Harry was down to 195 and Della had reached 132.

Both began to feel young, for they were actually lighter on their feet and thus quicker in their movement, as well as reassured in their morale.

"Dr. Crane," Della exulted, "already I have noticed that Harry is perking up in his romantic interest.

"Now he kisses me voluntarily and with much fervor."

When Harry got down to 185, Della had reached 124, so they were so delighted with each other that they went on a wedding anniversary trip to Honolulu.

"It was like a second honeymoon, too," Della reported later.

So nip divorce in the bud by lopping off the ugly blubber that not only kills your seductive allure, but shortens your lifespan.

Wives, get the plump members of your church women's society to diet together and then add the $3.50 per pound savings in groceries to your church Easter offering.

Some women's groups have thus been able to contribute an extra $1,000 to their church contributions — and without disturbing their budget an iota!

So send for the diet booklet "How to Lose 10 Lbs. in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents. It contains a calorie chart for various foods, etc.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

H. L. Hunt Writes

Nearly everyone wants to do something to protect freedom but just cannot quite get started. People fail to keep well enough informed to help save their own freedom.

A pollster for NEWSWEEK reporter from Detroit, Michigan, Aug. 18, 1958, that he asked 14 persons, "Do you think William Jennings Bryan will win in the primary tomorrow?" Although the great commoner, who campaigned the nation three times as nominee for President, had been dead 33 years, seven of the 14 questioned replied that they "thought he would win."

Many frequently join some group but nothing is accomplished. "Keep posted" groups or posts are now being formally organized with from 3 to about 30 members. Three are selected as officers, acting as chairman., secretary and expediter. The duty of the expediter is to keep the membership intact and busy. The domicile for the post may be a filling station, another small business or a home.

There are no initial fees or dues. A post is not expected to hold meetings. One member, or some business patronized by members subscribes to some publications with good freedom material in their news or editorial content. Members pass the constructive material from one to another, attend patriotic meetings and invite friends to accompany them to Sunday School and Church.

The post does not engage in political activities but devotes its attention to public affairs education, which is more important. It may become dormant when there is little interest in public affairs but can spring into action when needed. HLH

Moscow Obtains 'Victory' in North Viet Nam

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (ENA) — Since it is Russia's policy to keep alive the undeclared war between Red China and the United States, Premier Kosygin's trip to North Viet Nam was a major diplomatic victory for Moscow.

Mao Tse-tung, who pulls the strings in Hanoi, obviously decided to stage the bloody raid on Pleiku while Kosygin was visiting North Viet Nam. His purpose was to demonstrate to Nikita Khrushchev's "revisionist' successor that America is a paper tiger after all.

U.S. retaliation was swift and equally devastating. As Defense Secretary McNamara explained, the Johnson Administration interpreted the attack on Pleiku as a test of American will and purpose and "We could not fail to respond."

Where do we go from here? Premier Kosygin made the usual attack on the "American imperialists." He promised the North Vietnamese Reds more Russian aid and then departed to mend his crumbling fences at home.

It is folly to assume—as some of President Johnson's advisers seem to believe—that it is in Russia's interest to settle the conflict in Southeast Asia.

The new generation of Russian rulers who "knew not Lenin" are nationalists before they are Communists. They exploit the Marxist - Leninist creed for the benefit of Soviet foreign policy. The Czars thus used Pan Slavism and the Greek Orthodox Church to expand their empire.

Leonid Brezhnev, Moscow's new Communist boss, and Premier Kosygin have little love for the United States. But they fear and hate Mao Tse - tung who has designs on chunks of Russian territory. It is thus in their interest to keep Red China and America embroiled in a bloody conflict as long as possible.

This was essentially Stalin's policy when he concluded his pact with Hitler in 1939. His aim was to unleash the Nazi maniac against the West.

Stalin's policy ultimately failed. Russia had to pay dearly for his folly. In the long run the Brezhnev - Kosygin policy might also fail, since Mao and his collaborators have long memories that are not easily appeased.

Meantime the United States is confronting alone the awakening Chinese dragon and there seems to be no end to the conflict in sight.

Has not the time come for another agonizing reappraisal of American policy in Asia? Could it be that President de Gaulle was right after all when he suggested the convocation of a Big Power conference in Geneva, including Red China?

In the past, world stability rested on the balance of terror of the two nuclear super powers, the United States and Russia. But the balance is changing fast. The impact of China's nuclear blast last October spread across Sinkiang to the nations of Asia.

The Pentagon's experts tend to deride the Chinese achievement. "All right, you have a bomb," they seem to tell Mao. "But what can you do with it?"

Nuclear capability, however, means little to the governments and people of Asia. China is the first Asian nation to have a nuclear bomb—its own bomb. Whether she has sophisticated means of delivery means little to the worker or peasant. He may know little of politics but he understands the importance of the bomb.

Perhaps Mao's new stature is still out of proportion to the size of his bomb or his ability to deliver it. But it is Red China and not Russia that has become the dominant and feared power in Asia. This is unvarnished reality.

How, then, can the United States hope to achieve even a truce in Viet Nam or Laos without direct diplomatic negotiations with Red China?

DREAM COME TRUE

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Brandon Kulik has been wanting some trains for a long time. And for his 10th birthday he got two sets of them—a scale model train for keeps and a real one for a day.

A railroad enthusiast for years, the fifth-grader received an HO-scale diesel locomotive, six passenger cars and a big oval of track as a gift. The second train, a big 2,000-horsepower diesel and seven cars, belongs to the Long Island Rail Road, but they shared it with Brandon, who was engineer for a day on a 23-mile run.

Communists Cannot Win Over an Aware Public

time he asked the people for their help and support," it was explained.

The captain divided the population into four classes:

— The vast majority. "These people are not part of the show most of the time."

— The attentive public. This group is smaller than the first group listed, many in this group read editorial pages and are up to date on current affairs.

— Leaders of businesses, unions, churches, professional societies, education, lobbies, and the news media. This group can reach the other groups at will and is the power behind the throne.

— The policy makers. This group issues the orders.

The leaders get their power from the attentive public, which gets its power from the vast majority, the last two listed groups do not as a rule make their views known.

The membership of these groups changes from time to time and issue to issue and the dividing lines are not always the same, he explained.

Public opinion is important to dictators, and the communists mold opinion this way:

— By shutting off the truth and ideas, and by dampening initiative.

— By insuring that everything written or spoken conforms to the party line.

The Russians use a number of ways to disseminate information to the world.

(a) The Ministry of Foreign Affiars; (b) the Ministry of Trade; (c) the Ministry of Culture; (d) Tass News Agency; (e) trade unions; (f) Academy of Science; (g) Creative Unions (arts); (h) Novoski (news), and the Unions of Friendship Societies.

The American State Department also works in the field of world public opinion, attempting to counter Russian efforts and projecting a favorable United States image.

The United States Information Agency has a five-pronged attack on the problem through these efforts:

(a Radio and TV; (b) information centers; (c) press and publications; (d) motion pictures, and (e) exchange programs.

Also the Agency for International Development and the Peace Corps work effectively to show the world what America is and create a favorable opinion of the United States, he said.

"The communists aim to overthrown the established governments and seize political power," said Pfeifer, and "they have the will to do it and believe they will win."

In their drive to win, they go by this new theory of warfare:

—Conquest by communication.

— Envelopment by politics.

— Encirclement by economics.

— Conflict by symbols. (Peace does not mean the same in communist language as it means to Americans.)

As leader of the free world, the United States has a responsibility to:

— Accept the Communist challenge and seize and maintain the initiative in all ways at home and abroad.

— Defeat the encroachment of moral weakness within the American society.

— Admit that it is in war for the minds of men.

— Regain and hold the high values and traditions of America.

— Employ to the fullest a system to defeat the Communists' new theory of warfare.

World opinion cannot be mobilized like materials and money, but the United States can gain it and sustain it by:

— Long-range and continuous efforts.

— A deeper-rooted understanding of American ideals, principles and philosophy.

— Renewed faith in American philosophies and traditions.

Man Injured When Car Turns Over

A spectacular one-car accident early today resulted in injuries to one person, the State Patrol reported.

David M. Schaefer, 27, Route 3, suffered head lacerations and was taken to a doctor by private vehicle.

According to the patrol, the accident occurred at 12:20 a.m. today approximately 15 miles north of the city on Colorado 1. Schaefer was northbound on Colorado 1 when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and ran off the right shoulder of the road. His car struck a large sign post, continued down the shoulder for 60 feet, and then turned over once, tumbling end over end.

Schaefer's automobile had an estimated $2,500 damage, according to patrol estimates.

During the game a player's head was elbowed in a scuffle under the basket.

Dr. Robbins took care of the scalp wound on the spot.

Coach Don Kennedy needed a permanent team doctor and Dr. Robbins accepted.

Sailboat Proves Best In Stormy Weather

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — When winds gusting to 58 miles an hour came from the south instead of the north and blew Joseph Cofer's anchored 16-foot sailboat out to sea, he called the Coast Guard.

A 30-foot patrol boat overran the line it tried to put aboard the sailboat, became entangled and capsized.

A 40-foot Navy utility boat went to the rescue, became disabled when its clutch failed, hit bottom and sank.

A 40-foot Coast Guard patrol boat finally picked up the dunked crewmen — none injured — and towed the capsized 30-footer to safety.

The sailboat?

It drifted ashore undamaged.

Phone Will Aid Teaching of Sick Children

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Even if Johnny has an illness that will keep him out of school for a couple of months, he doesn't have to miss any of his three Rs — or any homework.

Philadelphia public schools, along with the Bell Telephone Co., will begin a telephone teaching program, known as "'Magicall,'' on an experimental basis March 15 for pupils who are expected to be absent from school at least two months.

Russell M. Leonard, associate superintendent for elementary and special schools, in announcing the plan Thursday, said the first program will have a maximum of 15 pupils in the 4th to 6th grade levels.

Here's how the plan works:

A teacher, working from a control room, calls the pupils to class on an automatic dialer. Each pupil has a specially-constructed telephone console equipped with sending and receiving sets which act as multiple telephone conference units.

Each pupil can respond to the teacher and can be heard by the others.

In the initial program, Leonard said, each pupil will receive a minimum of one hour of instruction a day. The teacher will instruct in the morning and use the afternoon to prepare lesson plans, make personal home visits — and arrange for the mailing of homework lessons.

There will be no additional cost to the parents, Leonard said.

The pupils will be selected by the home school program (homebound pupils) visitor — and only if there is a telephone in the home.

MEDICAL BROWSING

"Man Bites Five Women" would suggest another example of a psychotic episode. But the subtitle was "In interest of forensic dentistry." This story appeared in Dental abstracts and was taken from a study at a Japanese dental college. After the man did his biting, the marks were photographed and measurements made. Detailed changes were recorded. What was the purpose of this odd experiment :To study the medicolegal aspects in crimes involving biting.

In a recent reply to a reader's question, we mentioned that the ancients referred to various skin disorders as leprosy. Dr. Thomas B. Fitzpatrick of Boston has an article on deficient pigmentation of the skin in the September issue of the Southern Medical Journal. He says vitiligo (patchy white spots) probably was the "leprosy" referred to so often in the Bible. As an example he quotes " . . . Miriam became leprous, as white as snow." Vitiligo may involve the skin of any part of the body, which becomes milk white. In leprosy there is only partial loss of color and the lesions are not white.

The term vitiligo was not used until the second century A. D. It comes from a Latin word meaning calf. These lesions resemble the patches of white on a spotted calf.

As a followup to my article on hypochondriasis, I have two items to add. Both came from the English medical journal, The Lancet. One correspondent to that publication points out that more than 300 years ago a medical writer called the condition "the disgrace of physicians, because they never cure it, and the scourge of physicians, because the patients complain daily."

The second is the comment from a British medico that any day now the Hypochondriacs Digest Association, Ltd., will invite us to join the Disease - of - the - Month record club. Each disk would discuss signs, symptoms, treatment, and autopsy report of new and exciting diseases. TV artists of international renown would do the recordings.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

KIDNEY CYST

M. B. S. writes: Is surgery the only answer to a cyst on a kidney?

REPLY

Yes, if there is a possibility that the cyst is malignant. On the other hand, many cysts are harmless except for taking up valuable kidney space. Removal is difficult and nothing is gained by mutilating the organ if it isn't necessary.

BRAIN BLOWOUT

S. E. G. writes: How is a brain aneurysm diagnosed?

The symptoms usually resemble those of stroke when a dilated blood vessel ruptures or oozes. The diagnosis is made by utilizing X-ray technics in which the vessel is visualized.

HUNTING and FISHING

By DICK MOORE

In a recent announcement, Rep. Everett T. Cook said that up to $1,000 a year in game and fish funds are being used by the state for other than game and fish purposes in violation of state law.

In a letter addressed to G. W. Cummings, Colorado Springs, Cook said:

"For years there have been continuous and repeated attempts to use or divert Game and Fish funds for purposes other than Game and Fish. We as Sportsmen have been on guard to repeal these attempts. It appears now, all have been caught asleep and probably under a smoke screen of combining Game and Fish, and Parks and Recreation epartments. Our attention has been diverted and our funds are being used elsewhere.

"The procedure by the administration has been to not appropriate for the needs of the Game & Fish Department from our own money for programs which are needed and proposed by the department and which contribute so much to the economy of Colorado.

"The then unappropriated monies are placed on interest whch reverts to the general fund. This interest amounts to as much as $100,000 or more per year. The total amount of all Game and Fish funds at the present time is $6,482,997.52, which is a maximum. The minimum looks to be about 4½ million. I stated that I believe this is illegal and would like to refer to Colorado Statutes 62-14-4, assent of state to Pittman - Robertson Act, which is attached.

"It is my contention that the state cannot follow the aformentioned practice and still conform with this act. Therefore, I am introducing legislation to correct this problem.

"I would like to solicit your support and influence with your Representative and Senators to help in the passage of my bill.

"I feel that if we are unsuccessful in passing this legislation we then, in order to protect our rights, will have to ask for a ruling from the proper authorities in Washington., D. C."

Local sport and wildlife officials urge all interested persons in the region to write their congressman concerning this vital situation.

Over half a million dollars in federal aid funds will be available to Colorado for its work in fish and wildlife restoration, according to Secretary of the interior Stewart Udall.

Fish and Wildlife restoration projects cover the purchase of land, improvement of areas of land and water for fish and wildlife and research conducted into restoration and perpetuation of fish and wildlife.

Under the federal aid program, the states initiate projects and if they are approved by the Department of the Interior, funds are allocated for the work. States receive up to 75 per cent reimbursement of the total cost.

Colorado's apportionments of the federal aid funds are $169,569 for fish under the Dingell-Johnson Act and $428,470 under the Pittman - Robertson Act.

Colorado, like other states, is eligible for federal aid funds as long as it does not divert money from its Game Cash Fund for purposes other than fish and wildlife restoration, protection and propogation.

The Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Commission, earlier this month, approved a total of $714,000 for projects in the state this coming year.

These projects include big game studies eovering deer, elk, antelope, bighorn sheep and mountain goats; game bird and migratory bird studies, range and habitat improvement studies and operation of research facilities at Ft. Collins. Also included are regional property improvement projects.

In the area of fish research, projects approved include trout studies, warm water fish studies, stream improvement work, pollution detection and control, the investigation of the affects on fisheries of the Curecanti project hear Gunnison, basic water inventories and regional fisheries dvelopment work.

The Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has set a nine day experimental teal duck season for the Central Flyway in September of this year. The season will coincide with the fall migration of the blue-wing teal.

Hunters must have a special permit issued at no charge by the Game, Fish and Parks Department and will be asked to send the wings from their birds to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

In addition,, some of the hunters will be asked to fill out a questionnaire. The federal agency hopes to collect enough technical data on this special waterfowl research project to throw some light on the migration patterns and habits of the blue-winged teal.

The nine day season for Colorado will be selected by Game, Fish and Parks Commission within the federal limits of September 1 through September 30. Bag limit will be 4 birds per day and 8 in possession. Shooting hours will be sunrise to sunset.

Beside the special permit, hunters will be required to have in their possession a small game hunting license with the 1965 duck stamp attached.

Laundry Room on Each Floor Designed

NEW YORK (UPI) — The basement laundry in apartment houses, in theory a fine way to eliminate the need for individual laundering facilities, may not be quite so successful in practice, especially for the busy housewife and mother who must leave her home for an hour or more or else dash up and down.

Recognizing the inconvenience of commuting from apartment to basement laundry with the family wash, Tandy & Allen Construction Co. has decided to bring the laundry room to the wash in its new Crescent Park luxury apartment in East Orange, N.J. There will be a laundry room on each floor of the 19-story building, with a conventional basement laundry to handle any overflow of traffic.

With the laundry room only a few steps down the hall, household duties need not be interrupted, and mothers don't have to be out of the house for long periods.

AIR CARGO UP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 11 U.S. trunk and three all-cargo airlines flew a record 1,054 million ton miles of air cargo (freight, rail and express) in in 1964, at 21.9 per cent increase over the 864 million ton miles carried in 1963, the Air Transport Association of America reports.

Air freight ton miles in 1964 totaled 798.3 million, an increase of 26.6 per cent. Express ton miles totaled 72.4 million, an increase of 10.2 per cent. Mail volume increased 9.0 per cent to a total of 183.2 million ton miles.

Nine Men on Death Row Get More Time

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — At least a 13-month stay has been granted nine men on death row at the Kentucky State Penitentiary at Eddyville.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt says he will not sign execution orders until the 1966 State Legislature can act on the death penalty issue.

The state — which has the death penalty for murder, rape and armed robbery — has executed 162 men in its electric chair since the device was installed in 1911. The last execution was on March 2, 1962.

The governor's task force on criminal justice is reviewing the death penalty. A bill to abolish executions cleared the Kentucky House Representatives in 1964, but did not in a Senate committee.

Breathitt said Thursday his thinking along the lines of seeking to abolish the death penalty in all cases except for a person under life sentence who commits murder. He adds retention of death in this instance would deter a slaying in an attempt to escape from prison.

MILL IS REALLY OLD

FALLS OF ROUGH KY. (AP) —The old mill in this community is really old—it was built in 1823 and still operates, grinding white corn meal about one day a week. Teeth in the gears that turn the grindstones are made of wood and carved by hand. The town's name, incidentally, derives from the fact that it is on the falls of Rough River.

Vote Against Warner Seen In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Because Audrey Hepburn was scratched before she got to the post, the Hollywood Oscar derby has the whole film colony gabbling today.

Miss Hepburn, star of "My Fair Lady" on the screen, didn't get nominated for the Motion Picture Academy awards. But Julie Andrews — who created Eliza Doolittle on Broadway — did.

Miss Andrews wasn't cast in the Warner Bros. film version. Audrey got the part. But Julie's selection as a best actress candidate resulted from "Mary Poppins," which led the pack with hers and 12 other nominations.

The vote against Audrey — even Warner Bros. admits — is more a vote against Jack L. Warner. The studio boss passed up Julie for the movie although her price was $75,000 compared with Audrey's $1 million.

Then a few weeks ago, when Julie received the Hollywood Foreign Press award, Warner in a speech couldn't remember her name.

"I didn't mean it as a slight," explains Warner. "In this business you're lucky if you remember your own name half the time."

"I'm disappointed she didn't get nominated for an Oscar but I still say I'm right in casting her for the part," says Warner.

Audrey rated critical raves for her performance and the picture is headed for boxoffice records.

When the movie started Miss Andrews never had made a picture. Walt Disney cast her as "Mary Poppins" and she emerged a boxoffice movie star. But Disney, whose name alone sells all his pictures, can star an unknown movie name. Warner, with an $18 million investment, couldn't afford such a gamble.

The fact remains that it was resentment against Warner's choice that hurt Audrey. Most everybody in Hollywood felt that Julie should have gotten the role in the first place. Only actors vote on nominations, and actors, being emotional people, vote emotionally. Lots of actors hate bosses.

It's that simple.

But there were other factors working against Miss Hepburn:

1. Her songs were dubbed by a professional singer — Marni Nixon.

2. The daughter of a baroness in real life, she was unbelievable, some thought, as a cockney flower girl.

3. She fired her press agent, remained aloof from the press in her Swiss home and did not campaign for a nomination. Julie did.

4. Julie, on Broadway and in London, was believable as a cockney. She sang her own songs and scored as the transformed lady.

Says Julie: "I felt very sad that Audrey was not nominated. She deserved it."

Says Audrey, from Switzerland via phone: "I'm happy for Julie but sad and disappointed for myself — but that's the way the members voted. Many other people who gave great performances were not nominated either."

Julie says she owes all her present success to Warner.

"I felt momentary disappointment when I didn't get the movie but with the way things turned out I now say: 'Thank God.'

"I could have been Eliza Doolittle the rest of my life — instead of Julie Andrews. I have Mr. Warner to thank for everything." She said this with a smile, but the remark was tinged with sarcasm.

Ulbricht Goes to See Ancient Luxor Site

CAIRO (AP) — East German President Walter Ulbricht flew today to Luxor to look at monuments erected by the pharoahs.

He was accompanied by Egyptian Deputy Premier Doctor Nour Eddin Tarraf.

Ulbricht was scheduled to visit the Aswan High Dam Saturday.

Ulbricht and Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser opened official talks today but both sides indicated no major economic or political results were expected.

Nasser said in a speech at a banquet in Ulbricht's honor Thursday night that, unless provoked, he does not plan to extend diplomatic recognition to East Germany.

PARKING EXPENDITURE

NEW YORK (UPI) — American motorists will spend about $600 million to park in privately operated parking facilities in 1965 — or about $10 for every passenger car in the country.

The estimate comes from Caesar P. Kimmel, vice president of Kinney Service Corporation and head of the company's national parking operations. It does not include estimated revenue to municipalities from parking meters and community owned parking facilities. Kimmel said fees to private car parks passed the half-billion dollar mark in 1964. He predicted a 15 per cent increase in 1965.

U. S. Coast Guard Fights Epidemic On Board Ship

By GERALD S. SNYDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Far off the coast of Newfoundland last year, fear spread aboard a Norwegian vessel when a 60-year-old member of the crew died, a deck boy became ill with strange symptoms and later the chief engineer and seven more crewmen took sick.

On the bridge of another "ship" far away, actually an old and grime-covered building on the edge of Manhattan, the danger of deadly epidemic was being fought calmly. Within hours of the first urgent request for assistance, a liner, the SS France, had transferred the ailing boy to its hospital and to the other stricken seamen went medical supplies for paratyphoid.

To the United States Coast Guard, on whose bridge the rescue was directed, went the satisfaction of another job well done.

Each day the Coast Guard, unheralded and generally unsung, protects ships over millions of square miles of ocean from disasters such as the one that faced the Norwegian vessel, the SS Margarita, that day.

The Coast Guard's "Medico service flashes medical advice through the airways all hours of the day and night—for the relief of everything from appendicitis and shipboard accidents to premature births and even epidemics. Only about 5 per cent of all the ships at sea carry doctors.

The Medico Service, serving 95 per cent of all American ships and 65 per cent of all the foreign flags, works like this:

Dozens of Coast Guard ships patrol the major ship and aircraft routes surrounding the United States. Each is on a 21-day assignment patrolling in an area 210 miles square and ready for any emergency at sea.

The ships, as in the case of the Margarita, pick up distress calls from ships in need in their area and these are transmitted to the nearest Coast Guard Medico Center — in Juneau, Alaska; Seattle, Wash.; San Francisco, Long Beach, Calif.; and Honolulu, Hawaii; Boston, Portsmouth, Va.; Miami, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; and New York City.

The Medico centers contact the nearest hospital of the U.S. Public Health Service and within minutes radio back to the Coast Guard ships the prescribed treatment. All ships carry standard medical chests aboard.

In the case of the Margarita, the Coast Guard used a $400,000 computer system to get the doctors over to the scene. This system around the clock plots and calculates the whereabouts of 900 ships in the North and South Atlantic, covering an area of about 4.5 million square miles.

A card is simply fed into the computer to "ask what ships are nearest a particular point —and the answer is given in less than a minute. One of those cards came up with the name of the France last year and thereby, no doubt, saved some lives and stopped an epidemic.

The Soviet Union, among a few countries, doesn't tell the Coast Guard where its ships are. The plan is entirely voluntary.

Getting the France on target was supervised from a raised platform, called a bridge, in a room of the U.S. Customs House in Manhattan, where the Third Coast Guard District is headquartered.

Last year, this district handled 340 Medico cases but the average, nationwide, is three cases a day.

Credit for the origin of Medico — long before computers — can be traced to a day in 1911 when a young man named David Sarnoff (now General Sarnoff, head of the Radio Corporation of America) came aboard a ship at St. Johns Newfoundland, to install and operate the ships new wireless equipment for a seal-hunting voyage to the Arctic.

One day the assistant chief wireless operator on a rocky, desolate island between Newfoundland and Labrador became sick and Sarnoff suggested that the ships doctor might be able to help.

He did, transmitting medical advice across 200 miles of ice and sea. When the man's condition grew worse the ship took the doctor to him.

Medico today is little known among landlubbers. But it has become the "guardian angel of those on the water.

STEVE BOYD WILL FILM SPY THRILLER IN ISRAEL

HOLLYWOOD — Remember Rome's "Man - in - the - Trunk" spy thriller? The story, which made world headlines last November, is a natural for the screen. It will be made in Israel as "Trunk to Cairo," starring Steve Boyd ad an espionage agent, and Senta Berger, the girl in the case. This may come as a bit of a shock, but it's the first German-Israeli coproduction and features actors from both countries. "The script is a beehive of intrigue," Steve tells me. But it couldn't touch the plot of his current one at Fox, "Fantastic Voyage." I don't know if you're ready for this (I'm not) but I'll pass it on. A famous scientist gets inoperable brain damage. Secret Service Agent Steve, two doctors, and a nurse are put into a submarine. The whole thing is miniaturized and injected into the scientist's bloodstream. They travel up to the brain., repair the damage, and the sub emerges from his eye!

If Chuck Moses servives the tour with Bette Davis and Olivia De Havilland to sell their picture, he'll marry Irv Kupcinet's assistant, Sharon Stelmok, next month. They met when he was traveling with Frank Sinatra two years ago. She'll come out from Chicago and they'll go out of town to tie the knot.

If you saw Hollywood Palace Saturday night, I think you'll agree with me that Bette Davis is a fine actress, but not an emcee. Nor can she sing. Methinks she doth protest too much when she does a song called "I Want to Be Single." She loves it so much she repeated it on the Today Show.

That fun-loving Munster, Fred Gwynne, tells me his wife, Foxie, is expected their third child.

Before Corinne Griffith married Danny Scholl, she sold her four corners in Beverly, a veritable gold mine, and bought 14 other pieces of property.

Ed Mulhare, that handsome bachelor who took over for Rex Harrison in "MyFairy Lady" on stage, is moving west, but won't sell his Connecticut home. He has a good part in "Von Ryan's Express," and is here playing an Englishman who comes to the United States to kidnap Ben Franklin in Daniel Boone. He'll be a welcome asset to our town,, but if he aims to remain single he'll have to take sprinting lessons.

Stanley Donen finally found a story he likes. It's "Arabesques," a diplomatic adventure yarn., and he's signed Sophia Loren and Gregory Peck. Starts in London the end of April.

Two days after Robert Q. Lewis returned from New York where he subbed for Bud Collier on To Tell the Truth, he signed to play the owner of a ski lodge in Sun Valley. Now he's with Chuck Connors in Branded.

Danny Kaye will have Shani Wallis belting some songs on an April show. She'll be at the Copa in March. Speaking of that, Jimmy Durante is big as ever at that place. Last time I saw him there, he introduced Peter Lawford in his act. Peter's wife and father-in-law, Joe Kennedy, were sitting ringside.

ASCAP night at the Hollywood Press club should have been on TV. Among the songwriters who talked, played their tunes, and sang were Ned Washington, Sammy Fain,, Johnny Green, Harry Ruby, Harold Adamson, Wolfie Gilbert, and Ben Oakland. When Ruby, whose passion is baseball, finished his act, he said, "Let's all join in singing 'Take Me Out to the Ball Game,' and began to play. With that, Wolfie Gilbert jumped to his feet and said, "You didn't write that song." The familiar tunes from 1910 to 1950 were played beautifully.

The Bill Wellmans bring their grandchildren to them when they need a baby sitter. They built a huge playroom and installed a pool for the kids, but it's Wild Bill who swims daily — rain or shine. The Bill Juniors are expecting their third.

Aerialist Who Almost Died Comes Back

By JOHN IGLEHART

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Thirty-five feet above the arena floor, where she almost lost her life, Mary Lou Lawrence, 28, resumed her career, undeterred by memories of a sickening plunge from the flying trapeze.

Flashing a wide smile, the aerialist from Crown Point, Ind., drew a standing ovation from the circus audience, then performed flawlessly Thursday in her first appearance since 1963.

"It was wonderful — no aches, no pains, no nothing," said Miss Lawrence.

Two years ago she suffered a skull fracture, a broken rib and a broken collar bone when she fell to the concrete floor of the Dane County Arena.

Miss Lawrence's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lawrence, and her fiance, Bobby Beckette of Hobart, Ind., could not attend the performance. Just before showtime, the pert redhaired aerialist learned that her parents were stranded in Chicago by a snow storm.

"I wish they could have made it, but that won't stop me," she said. "I've got to go through with this for my own sake."

The drama of her comeback began as she waited for the show to begin.

Sitting alone in the wings, smoking a cigarette, she studied the other performers. Was she worried about the possibility that one of them might fall?

"Of course not. They're professionals, and they wouldn't be up there unless they were experts.

"You aren't scared because you know you've done it a thousand times."

Just before Miss Lawrence began her act, Larry Ruhl, who would handle her climbing rope as he had done that night two years ago, commented: "She's a little nervous, but wouldn't you be too?"

Ten minutes later Miss Lawrence descended to the floor, her triumph complete.

Airman Found Guilty of Killing Filipino Boy

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — A U.S. general court-martial today found Airman 1.C. Larry D. Cole guilty of unpremeditated murder in the shooting of a Filipino boy and sentenced him to three years' imprisonment at hard labor.

Cole, 21, of Marshall, Mich., was convicted of killing Rogelio Balagtas, 14, at the Clark Air Base bombing and gunnery range Nov. 25.

The killing was one of three recent incidents at American military bases that sparked Filipino protest demonstrations.

The maximum penalty for unpremeditated murder is life imprisonment.

The sentence against Cole also included dishonorable discharge, reduction in rank to airman basic, and forfeiture of all pay and allowances.

It will be reviewed by the commander of the 13th Air Force and the Air Force Board of Review in Washington.

Cole wept when the verdict of guilty was announced. But at the reading of the sentence later he maintained his composure.

Cole, 21, had pleaded innocent. He said he fired a warning shot in the general direction of a group that was trespassing on the range. Cole was bird hunting at the time.

Cole's chief counsel, Lt. Col. Bertram Jacobson, claimed in his summation that the case was politically inspired. He called the airman "a helpless pawn in an international situation."

The assistant prosecutor, Capt. Jack K. Mandel, told the court Jacobson's statement was unwarranted. He contended that none of the instructions given to guards at the range could be interpreted as authorization to shoot at people.

In a written statement introduced earlier in the trial, Cole said he did not fire with the intention of injuring or killing anyone. But the prosecutor said Cole fired his rifle while holding it parallel to the ground. He said that when a weapon is fired in this position the bullet is likely to strike someone.

The seven-man court deliberated 2½ hours before returning the verdict "guilty as charged."

Before the court retired again to decide on the sentence, the defense counsel appealed for mercy. He said Cole had a perfect record except for "a moment of stupidity."

Wife Preferred to Live in New York

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Artist Jean Varda, 71, has divorced his third wife, Chryssa Varea Varda, 34, New York sculptress, saying she preferred New York to life with him on a Sausalito houseboat.

"She thought San Francisco was the provinces," he told Superior Court Judge Charles Brusatori in winning an interlocutory decree Thursday.

"She was passionately ambitious and thought New York was the only place for an artist. It was a matter of husband vs. career, and she wanted the career."

Varda said they had been wed in Paris in 1955 and she left him three years later.

'GATORS ARE GONE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—It's open season on alligator thieves in this city.

Parks Commissioner Dallas L. Thomas announced a $250 reward for information leading to the apprehension of persons who stole 18 alligators from the City Zoo.

Thomas estimated the city's loss at $1,000 — the cost of replacing the missing saurians. But he said at the going rate of $4.50 per foot for 'gator skins, the haul could bring about $3,000.

PANAMA (AP) — University of Panama students who protested a government roundup of Communist leaders have decided not to demonstrate against President Marco Robles when he attends the school's graduation ceremonies tonight.

Twelve men identified by the government as members of the central comittee of the outlawed Communist People's party were arrested Sunday.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

In answer to the woman who has so many sons, and loads of stained T-shirts to wash:

The best way I have found, without too much time andfuss or scrubbing, is to try washing them "twice." The first time wash them in "hot" water with lots of liquid bleach (according to directions) and a good detergent. Then wash them in hot water and detergent without bleach.

After this procedure is used for a few weeks she should start seeing the difference in the T-shirts. If they are badly stained, it may take longer, but I doubt it.

I hope you print this in the paper because women who have washed for years have asked me how I keep my clothes and T-shirts so white. I think it is also a good hint for brides just starting families, for this step of washing can apply to any clothes that should be white.—Regular

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Don't keep your husband in hot water all of the time because this will not make him tender. . . —Mrs. L.

Dear Heloise:

When washing draperies that have drapery hooks, do you hate to put the grimy pins back on the nice clean drapes, and find that they stick and are very hard to get back in?

When you wash the woodwork around the windows and have your pail of hot or warm water with a good cleaner in it, take the pins and drop them in the water.

By the time the woodwork is done, take them out and just let them dry on a newspaper.

When the drapes are dry and ready to hang up, the pins will be sparkling clean and dry, and they will slip very easily back into the drapes.

Why? You have removed all the grime from them while they soaked in the suds. . . —Irene Fialko

Dear Heloise:

For rings on glasses, I mix up a good warm solution of water and a detergent, place my glasses "under" this solution and leave them over night.

Next morning I just rinse them. The rings and film are gone completely. —Annie Olsen

Annie, you're right. I tried it. I don't know if you and I use the same type of detergent or not, but it sure works. Thanks gal, —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I tape a couple of cigarette filter tips to the top of my sewing machine (near the wheel). It's a wonderful place to stick those pins and basting needles! You can also put them on the inside of your sewing basket. The needles and pins stick in them beautifully. —Mrs. D. M. Spielik

Dear Heloise:

For a youngster's birthday party (four years and under), instead of those silly candy baskets, which spill all over the place and cause general confusion at the end of the party, I give the children a package of raisins to take home and an individual cup cake, which has one candle placed on it, so that each one can blow out a candle of his "own' at home. . .

They think it is great, to. —Ruth Siddler

And raisins are good for the kids, too. Thanks, Ruth. —Heloise

The bidding:

Opening lead: Deuce of ♡

East took advantage of the opportunity, presented by his partner's opening lead, to steer declarer into a fatal course that produced a stunning upset of a vulnerable slam contract.

South's jump response of two notrump shows a balanced hand containing 13 to 15 high card points. North had 20 points himself and, since the partnership was assured of a minimum of 33 points, he left nothing further to chance and proceeded directly to six notrump.

Inasmuch as the opposition had not shown any interest in the major suits, West chose to open his fourth best heart. This proved to be a lucky stab for the defense, since East had his entire strength concentrated in hearts. The latter reacted in a curious manner, however, for when the six of hearts was played from dummy, East put up the queen to drive out declarer's ace.

With the jack of hearts in dummy, by merely playing the ten, East can dislodge South's stopper and establish two tricks for himself. East was looking ahead, however, and had devised a scheme for painting a false picture of the distribution to the declarer which he hoped would lure the latter to his downfall.

Declarer could count 11 top tricks — four clubs, four diamonds, one heart and two spades. The normal play for the 12th is to finesse the jack of spades in the hope that West has the queen. The fall of the cards on the initial heart trick, however, had apparently eliminated the necessity for relying on the mere 50-50 odds of a spade finesse. If West has the heart ten, then a lead toward North's jack-nine can be relied on to safely establish declarer's 12th trick without any guesswork.

South promptly returned a heart; however to his great mortification, East covered dummy's nine with the ten and then cashed the king for the setting trick.

Observe that, if East plays the ten of hearts on the first trick to drive out declarer's ace, South is obliged to take the spade finesse for lack of any alternative plan.

Excusing Bad Behavior

By Mrs. MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My daughter uses child psychology books to excuse the bad behavior of my 5-year-old granddaughter. As you have criticized these books, please write and tell her to stop reading them. She has no control at all over Jessica. At the table she allows the child to take food from other people's plates and get up and walk around. She lets her interrupt her elders when they are talking. If my son-in-law tries to interfere, she turns on him as she does on me . . .

ANSWER: Do you all criticize your daughter like this? It is impossible, you know, for us to put controls on a child if we have been made to feel incompetent by constant criticism. We can't trust what we want from Jessica.

Other people's criticism of us has so corrupted our confidence in it that all Jessica has to do is to assert what she wants aggressively enough to make us back down—and permit her to take food from other people's plates or to indulge any other want that occurs to her. We can't maintain any opinion of what she does because confidence in our opinions has been destroyed.

Have you always ciriticized your daughter in this arrogant spirit? Because reading child psychology books cannot entirely account for her uncertain and submissive treatment of your granddaughter.

Our self-trust has to be well softened up before we begin to seek our answers in child psychology books. Usually, those of us who frantically seek the expert's guidance in the management of children have, as children ourselves, been made to feel incompetent by our own parents. Our childhoods have been spent with adults who found so many faults in us, either by spoken or unspoken criticism, that we grew up without any confidence in our opinions.

Becoming parents in our turn required to assert these opinions to our own children, we find ourselves unable to move on them with firmness. That's when we resort to child psychology books. In our desperate need for some opinions we can rely on, we grab at the experts' opinion to depend upon.

It's clear, isn't it, that your daughter doesn't feel she can rely on yours?

When our childhood discipline has produced only such doubt of ourselves that we can't stop a little daughter from running around the table, it is proper for us to reject it as bad discipline. Your daughter's reliance on the experts may be one way of criticizing her own training.

RECEIVES MEMORY BOOK — Mrs. Richard Ashbaugh, left, was cited recently for her service of ten years teaching at Little Folks School at a luncheon in her honor at the Golden Dragon Restaurant. She was presented with a memory book made by Mrs. Neal Hotchkiss. At right is Mrs. Florence Van Skike. When Mrs. Ashbaugh started teaching, Mrs. Florence Van Skike, director, had just moved the Little Folks School to a house on San Rafael St., now part of Colorado College, and had expanded the enrollment. Within four years, the city population had increased so much that a branch was opened at Grace Church in order to serve more children. Mrs. Ashbaugh remained with the younger children at the old location. Three years ago, when operations were again consolidated, she moved with the others to the Grace Church.

INDIANS IN BUSINESS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — After centuries of isolation in the Everglades, the Miccosukee Indians are breaking with tradition and entering the field of commerce.

Their first tribal enterprise is a restaurant, located 40 miles west of here on the Tamiami Trail, financed in part by a loan from the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

This and an adjacent new filling station are expected to provide employment to members and produce revenue for the tribal budget. A two - room schoolhouse, community center and 15 modern homes which retain the traditional thatched room, under which beam-and-board roofing, will complete the Miccosukee tribal complex.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

This, Too, Shall Pass!

DEAR ABBY: I went steady with Joe for six months and then we broke up. He has been talking about me something terrible and I don't know what to do. He never got anything more from me than a goodnight kiss at the door, but he has been going around telling everybody that he quit going with me because he got all he wanted. — TALKED ABOUT

DEAR TALKED ABOUT: Maybe that's all he wanted. Forget it.

DEAR ABBY: Don't you think that when a husband and wife eat out he should give her some suggestion as to what to order, or at least some clue as to how much he intends to spend? Example: We had breakfast in a restaurant recently. I asked him what he was going to order, and he said he didn't know. Trying to be thoughtful and considerate I ordered coffee and toast. Then HE ordered juice, bacon and eggs, blueberry muffins and jam and coffee. I would have enjoyed that kind of breakfast, too, but I hesitated to order it because I wasn't sure he was going in for a meal like that. Later he could see I was hurt so he asked me what was wrong, and I told him as nicely as I could that if I had know he was going to order a meal like that, I would have too. Don't you think it's a man's responsibility to put his wife at ease and give her some kind of a clue as to what kind of meal he had in mind to pay for? He can't understand it. —ONLY HIS WIFE

DEAR ONLY: There is no reason why you, after hearing your husband's order, couldn't have changed you mind and had the same. To have sat there and sulked in silence was childish. This man is not a "date," lady —he's your husband. I suggest you get on more familiar terms with him. You might enjoy it.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is trying to keep busy at work. I work for a small company in a one-girl office. I have a wonderful boss and a nice place to work, and the pay is good, but about three (and sometimes four) days out of the week I have nothing to do. The mail comes in at noon and I spend the rest of the day just sitting around. The phone hardly ever rings. I've read books and magazines, and listened to the radio, but I can't do that all day. I've straightened the desk drawers, files and cupboards and even cleaned and scrubbed the office although we have janitorial service. My boss is out of town most of the time. He knows I don't have enough to keep me busy, but he deosn't mind. I love my job, but I wish you could tell me how to occupy my empty hours. — LENORA

DEAR LENORA: If idleness bugs you and you like to work, get a job where there is work to do. The job you have now, and say you "love," is unlike most jobs worthy of the name.

DEAR ABBY: I was surprised at your answer to the person who asked what you thought of people who offered to take their guests on a "tour" of their home. Maybe YOU think it's all right, but I have another opinion on that.

A home is not a show place, it is a person's private property with all his personal possessions collected there, and I think it is in very poor taste to show them off.

Now I have another question for you: What do you say when someone comes into your home for the first time, looks around and then says, "May I see the rest of your house?" —NO SHOW-OFF

DEAR NO: You have two choices. You may either offend your guest by refusing his request. Or you conduct the guided tour whether you like it or not. I would give him the tour.

Salida Aims For Twelfth Win in Row

Salida will be looking for its 12th straight basketball victory Saturday against Manitou Springs, but probably will be looking past the Mustangs to the district tournament.

Coach Don Schmidli doesn't approve of the tournament format in prep basketball after a round robin tournament, but is thankful for it just the same — it made the Spartans state AA champions last winter.

This year's meet, with all eight Pikes Peak League teams competing, will be held March 4-6 in the Colorado Springs City Auditorium.

Last year Salida finished third in the round robin affair but won the tournament crown to follow Cheyenne Mountain into the state meet. Once there, the Spartans swept through to the championship, their second in six years.

With the round robin title already sewn up this year, a battle for second place will ensue tonight. Florence, all alone in the runner up spot, will travel to Fountain, which is out of the race but has a good chance to upend the Huskies. Buena Vista will travel to Leadville in a collision of 3-3 teams. In the other game tonight, crowley County (3-3) goes to Fowler (1-5).

Florence can cinch second place with a victory over the unpredictable Trojans, but a loss would throw the No. 2 spot into at least a two-way tie.

Only one team from each district will go to the state tournament this year, making the second place finish something of an honorary one. But the final places in the season standings will determine the pairing for the district tournament and could well have a bearing on the outcome.

Foremsky Top PBA Qualifier

PBA Pikes Peak Open Finals Slated Tonight

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Two left-handers from Texas established a new precedent in the seven-year history of the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) when portside keglers Skee Foremsky and Jerry McCoy finished one-two respectively in the $28,500 PBA Pikes Peak Open tournament 40-game qualifying at Classic Bowl in Colorado Springs.

Foremsky, a 23-year-old two-year PBA veteran who has yet to cash in while competing in four tourneys this year, topped the 104 bowlers shooting for the $5,000 first place prize money when the El Paso bowler fired an 8927 (picking up 500 bonus pins in the 16-game finals via his 10-6-0 won-loss-tied record in head-to-head competition) for a 40-game qualifying score.

Foremsky, who won $4,550 in nine PBA tournaments last year, led the qualifiers from the Pikes Peak Open first session last Tuesday and he drew a bye for tonight's finals.

Tonight, Foremsky will be seeded into the final championship game while the second, third and fourth qualifiers will roll a round robin with each man meeting the other two. The winner of two of the three-game round robin will meet Foremsky for the Pikes Peak Open championship and $5,000 first place prize money. In the event the three runners-up win one game apiece in the round robin, highest pinfall will decide the finalist.

If there is a tie in either the round robin or the championship game, the bowlers involved will roll an additional two frames equal to the ninth and tenth frames of a regular contest.

Tonight's finals begin at 8 p.m. and continue through 9:30 p.m. with Foremsky meeting the round robin winner. The loser in tonight's championship game will receive $2,500, while the third and fourth place finishers will get $1,500 and $1,300 respectively.

The Pikes Peak Open 16th top qualifier received $700 and the tourney paid through 24th place with last year's PBA Denver Open runner-up George McConald finishing 24th. McDonald was the only Colorado kegler among the 18 state entries to cash in as the Denverite fired a 4801 for 24 games.

In tonight's finals, which is scheduled to be taped by ABC-TV and the Pikes Peak Open finals will be shown on nationwide television via 175 stations on Saturday, Feb. 27. Locally, the TV show will be shown the same day (Saturday, Feb. 27) from 1:30-3 p.m.

McCoy will join Eddy Patterson of El Paso and Detroit's Dave Soutar to form the three-man finalist round robin competition with the winner meeting Foremsky for the championship.

Patterson fired an 8208 and picked up 450 bonus pins for his 9-7-0 won-loss-tied record for a 40-game total of 8658. Soutar won the fourth finalist slot via a total 8653 pins. McCoy finished second to Foremsky with a total of 8679 pins.

McCoy fared better in the 16-game head-to-head competition, winning 11 of his 16 games but the Ft. Worth pro rolled a 8129 score compared to Foremsky's 8427.

Heyman Fined Again By Knickerbockers

NEW YORK (AP) — Art Heyman of the New York Knickerbockers is $200 poorer today following his second fine this season by the National Basketball Association club.

The Knicks, who had docked their backcourt man $100 earlier in the season, levied the second fine Thursday for "conduct detrimental to the club."

Heyman, who has asked to be traded, had accused New York Coach Harry Gallatin of vetoing a deal involving the former Duke All-America.

Pirates Finish DPL Slate In Denver With Two Games

DENVER — Dan Wright's Buccaneers, who last week saw their Denver Parochial League title hopes go astray in a two game home-and-away losing venture, conclude their 1964-65 regulation slate here this weekend.

St. Mary's tangles with St. Joseph's tonight and the Pirates return to this Mile High City for their DPL finale against highly regarded St. Francis in a Sunday afternoon contest.

Tonight's encounter is set for the St. Joseph's gym at 7 p.m.

Wright's chargers conclude their DPL campaign here Sunday against St. Francis at the latter's home court. Game time is slated for 2:30 p.m.

The Bucs could drop both DPL games and still finish in third place, however, this is hardly consoling to the Colorado Springs' team which was in contention for the conference championship a week ago until the Pirates succumbed to Machebeuf and Annunciation.

St. Mary's comes into tonight's outing with St. Joseph's, a team the Pirates surpassed by an overwhelming margin of 71-40 in their DPL first round encounter, with an 11-5 won-loss record. The Pirates also defeated St. Francis (58-54) but since then the Warriors have improved, especially after they knocked off then-once-beaten Mullen.

Torrid scoring Mullen needs only one victory in its last two encounters against Cathedral (tonight) and winless Mt. Carmel (Sunday) to sew up the league championship.

The Mustangs are 14-2 in DPL competition but perennial league kingpins from Regis could deadlock Mullen for the DPL championship if the latter team should lose one of its remaining two games (assuming that Regis wins its two final games against Holy Family and St. Joseph's).

The Pirates recorded their 17th win when they stopped the Fountain Valley Boys School team last Wednesday afternoon in non-conference play in Colorado Springs. St. Mary's stopped Fountain Valley, 58-44, with top scorer Tom McCarthy pumping in 15 points to spearhead the victory. In overall competition, the Bucs have compiled a 17-6 won-loss record.

TOP PIKES PEAK OPEN QUALIFIER —Skee Foremsky, a 23-year-old lefty from El Paso, points to his commanding lead in the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) Pikes Peak Open tournament at Classic Bowl in Colorado Springs after 32 games. Foremsky went on to top the 16-man semi-finals field with a score of 8927 (including his 500 bonus pins for a 10-6-0 won-loss-tied record in Thursday night's head-to-head 16-game competition). Looking on are Eddy Patterson, who dropped to third place after the 16-game semi-finals, and Dave Davis of Phoenix, who finished in fifth place. The top four qualifiers, including Foremsky, are slated for tonight's finals and $5,000 first place prize money.

AAH-Panthers, Glads-Tigers Tilts End WRL Slate Tonight

Harrison's Will Rogers League basketball championship team and state UPI 10th-ranked Panthers attempt to conclude their 1964-65 regulation slate on a winning note when they tangle with Air Academy High in tonight's WRL finale.

Norman Sullivan's towering Panthers, who last week wrapped up the conference title which was Harrison's first league championship in the school's 10-year history of competing in all sporting events, will be gunning for their eighth straight WRL victory.

The Harrison-Academy High game tonight has been re-scheduled for the Air Academy High Gymnasium. Tipoff time is set for 8 p.m.

In over WRL competition tonight, winless Canon City seeks its first conference win when the Tigers take on Widefield at the latter's home court beginning at 8 p.m.

Saturday's agenda calls for one game when Widefield plays host to Arapahoe (Littleton) to conclude the regulation season schedule for all five WRL teams.

Regardless of the outcome of the Harrison-Academy High contest, the Panthers will rule as WRL champions. However, the Kadets must revenge a WRL first round loss to their taller opponents to deadlock Cheyenne Mountain for the runner-up slot in final league standings.

The Kadets are 4-3 coming into tonight's game and they must defeat Harrison to tie Cheyenne (5-3) for second place.

On the other hand, a victory for the Panthers would give Harrison an undefeated WRL campaign.

Sullivan and his chargers will be looking with interest to the Southern League District Tournament finals Saturday night at La Junta. The Panthers will meet the winner of that single round tournament in the state playoff game next week for the eighth berth in the State AAA Tournament, which is scheduled for March 11-13 in Denver.

Although LaJunta clinched the Southern League three weeks ago, the Tigers are faced with winning the single round tournament to qualify for the state playoff game against Harrison.

The Southern League tournament began Thursday night with the four lower division teams engaged in single game action. The winners of Thursday's games are scheduled to tangle with the top seeded squads — La Junta and Alamosa — in tonight's semi-finals.

The winners of tonight's games will tangle Saturday night for the tournament championship and the state playoff slot.

According to Harrison officials, Harrison will host the winner of the Southern League tournament in the state playoff game at the Palmer Gymnasium on either Thursday, Mar. 4, or Saturday, Mar. 6. The game will definitely be held at Palmer's gym but Harrison and the Southern League team will have to agree on a playoff date.

La Junta should be a solid choice to win the tournament title, based on its undefeated loop record and overall mark of 17-1 losing that single outing to Lamar in a pre-season holiday tournament, 64-63. But since that time Coach Sam Landrum's Tigers have dumped Lamar on two occasions, the latest victory coming last weekend when they toppled Lamar, 67-61.

La Junta is slated to play the winner of Thursday's Las Animas-Pueblo County game at 7 p.m. tonight, and Alamosa tangles with the winner of Thursday's Lamar-Rocky Ford game at 8:30 p.m. Tonight's semi-finals winners meet for the championship Saturday night at 8:30 p.m.

In Thursday night's opening games, Las Animas topped Pueblo County, 66-62, and Rocky Ford dumped Lamar, 77-72.

Tribe Meets East, Miners In SCL Sets

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The home court advantage means quite a lot to the Palmer Terrors — they have it for their last three games. And if East's Eagles perform near their well-known capacity tonight, the Terrors will need all the advantage they can get.

East sports the South Central League's second best scoring average, 69.2 points a game. Its season mark is only slight lower, 68.1. Palmer has had trouble getting points on the scoreboard in quantity. The Terrors are hitting 48.9 points a game with a 3-6 league record.

The difference tonight may be defense. Palmer has held the top teams, Central and Centennial, to less than 60 points three of the four meetings despite losing all four games. The Terrors won the league's second best defensive average, 51.7 points, behind Centennial's 48.6.

East's high scores have not helped win games, as the Eagles have posted a 6-4 SCL record. They have allowed 56.2 points a game, better only than Wasson, South and Trinidad.

Although the Tribe has not been hitting the baskets well the last few games (excepting a 44.4 performance against South), coach Roger O'Neil thinks they will improve over the last trio of starts.

"We have the home court, and we don't have such bad shooters. Ed Fitzgerald is capable of doing well." The 6-5 center has hit 24 and 22 points against South and Centennial, but has not been in double figures in any other of the last four starts.

"East has one of the best front lines in the league. I'm surprised they aren't right on top. But their defense could be what's hurting them."

Dan Noll of the Eagles leads the SCL with 17.5 points a game. Teammate Mark Bean is in third at 14.5 and Darrell McDaniel is fifth with a 13.2 average.

Saturday night the Terrors host Trinidad, an almost-sure victory. But the Miners, who have beaten only South, gave Wasson a scare last week, getting an 11-0 lead before the T-Birds could light the scoreboard. And the Miners got some early rebounding help from Frank Debaca and John Ferraro.

Palmer lost to East in their first meeting, 58-35. The Miners fell at Trinidad, 39-33, as the Terrors used a stall most of the second half to avoid fouling.

Monument Scores Initial Victory in BFL Tourney

ELIZABETH — Lewis-Palmer meets Elbert tonight at 7:03 p.m. and Kiowa faces Simla at 9 p.m. in the semi-finals of the Black Forest League basketball tournament.

Lewis-Palmer knocked off Elizabeth, 76-40; Elbert edged Deaf and Blind, 43-39; and Kiowa bested Calhan, 62-54, Thursday night in first round action. Simla drew a bye.

Crosby Carver scored 17 points and Danny Pearce added 15 as the Monument Rangers whipped Elizabeth. The Rangers took a 21-4 first quarter lead and were never headed.

Deaf and Blind led most of the way, until a surge by Elbert late in the final period took away the victory. D&B had scored 13 points in each of the first two periods, but managed only 13 points the rest of the game.

Tony Copper earned high point honors with 21 as Kiowa had four men in double figures. Kiowa staved off a second half rally by Calhan to take the victory.

Athletic Leads Baseball Golf

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Confident Ken Harrelson of the Kansas City Athletics carried a six-stroke lead into the second round of the National Baseball Players Golf Tournament today.

Harrelson, a first baseman, predicted at the tournament start that he would win the trophy. He finished the first round Thursday with a two-over-par 73.

Alvin Dark, Chicago Cub coach and four-time winner of the tournament, was second with a 79. Bob Shaw of San Francisco and Dick Stuart of Philadelphia were tied for third at 80.

Last year's winner, Albie Pearson of the Los Angeles Angels, was fifth with an 81.

New Look T-Birds Meet Old Nemesis

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO —Wasson's "new look" basketball team returns to the scene of one of the school's worst disasters tonight, hoping to continue the revival of a sport that had been floundering in recent weeks.

The Thunderbirds, minus six players who had been with the squad throughout the season, will launch a weekend series against Pueblo opposition with an all-junior lineup, one that flatened a three game losing streak in a contest with Trinidad last Saturday.

Tonight's assignment is scheduled to commence at 8 with Pueblo South as the opponent. Saturday Wasson returns to the same District 60 floor for the unenviable task of tangling with Pueblo Central's defending champions.

It was in this Pueblo gymnasium that the Thunderbirds experienced both their high and low points of the campaign. In a tremendous effort nearly in the league race, Wasson clipped a strong Pueblo East team 78-77 in an overtime show, a feat that tabbed the Birds as a contender at the time. One month later the Springs quintet returned to the site, only to be humiliated by Centennial 65-44. The final score in that contest does not begin to tell the story as the T-Birds were limited to just 10 points in the first half.

Since that time the Wasson squad has undergone a thorough renovation. Five seniors and one junior have been dropped from the roster, including former All-City player Jim Smith and sometimes - starter, Craig Gillette. The situation came to a head last Saturday night when Coach Dick Westbay gave his seniors one last starting chance, only to see them fall behind last place Trinidad, 11-0. On came a junior group which not only salvaged victory, but did so by 22 points in a 59-37 conquest.

Westbay plans to continue the youth movement tonight. Six players are under consideration for starting assignments, and all are juniors. Rick Pettigrew, a first-stringer since the start of the campaign, is the only former regular assured of a starting berth. Others will go to Joe Shipp, Larry Taylor, and Budgie Hamilton. The fifth will be awarded to either Rich Wadlow or Randy Stanley. Stanley, the team's leading scorer, has been on the floor for the opening tip most of the winter.

The squad still includes four seniors. Charlie Steel, a second string All-City choice a year ago and Mike Martin are former regulars who are still available for action. So are Dave DanDer-Wege, a 6-5 post man, and guard Rod Wells.

South is an opponent Wasson has fond hopes of getting to this evening. Not only have the Colts dumped Thunderbird editions 8 of 11 times in the past six years, but it was a 66-64 upset by South late in January that prefaced the Wasson troubles which have grown in magnitude ever since. At the time of that first game, the T-Birds stood 2-1 in South Central League play and had just accomplished a two-game sweep on the road. They then met the Colts on the Colorado Springs floor and were victimized by a narrow margin in a performance that was certainly the finest of the winter for the Pueblo club. Since, South has lost six straight and dipped to sixth place in the seven team circuit.

Coach Bill Brown, who still favors the "run and gun" game which he introduced into the conference, has an outstanding player in forward, Dan Borton. Borton is second in league scoring with a 15.8 average. Other starters include Tom Mauro, Greg Keys, and Ron Lawlis, with the fifth selection coming from among a number of candidates.

Although Wasson prospects of a victory tonight are strong, Saturday's task is much less inviting. Central, just a half-game removed from the SCL lead it has held much of the past two years, is even on the loss side of the standings and will be taking no unnecessary risks at faltering at this late date in the campaign. Two of the league's collection of outstanding sophomores, Eddie Smith and Terry Snider, pace the Central attack with seniors Jim Wallace and Dan Kochevar and junior Rick Perryman completing one of the best-balanced groups to ever play in the conference.

Tiger Skaters to Wind Up Season In Two-Game Series With Spartans

EAST LANDING, Mich—Colorado College closes its ice hockey season here tonight and Saturday evening with a pair of games against Michigan State University.

The decisions will mean nothing as far as changing CC's standing in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association's final placings, but this series could be mighty important to M-State and the Spartans' quest for the league playoffs.

Going into this weekend's round of games, Michigan State and near neighbor Michigan University are still fighting it out for the fourth spot in the four-team WCHA playoffs. A sweep of the two games against the visiting Tigers could almost cinch the berth for the Spartans.

In the meantime, Michigan U. will also be ending its regular slate by hosting second place Michigan Tech at Ann Arbor. Should both State and MU win both games they would end up in a .500 tie, but the Spartans are leading in goals scored per game which would be used as a divider.

A split by both of the Michigan schools would give the fourth spot to the Wolverines on percentage since they will have played more games.

In other action, league-leading North Dakota will host the University of Minnesota in a pair of contests — with the chance of Minnesota possibly taking over second, depending on how Tech comes out.

North Dakota has already wrapped up the regular season title with an 11-3-1 record, while Tech is now in second on 10-5-1, and Minnesota has third on 10-6. Michigan, the defending NCAA champion, stands at 7-9 in fourth and State is 5-7 in league play.

Bringing up the tailend are Denver (4-7-1) and CC (2-12).

The top three have cinched berths in the playoffs, which will match the first and fourth teams, while second hosts third in the two-game total-goals series. Winners of the preliminary games will then play for the WCHA trophy, with the champ getting the No. 1 seed in the NCAA championships in March.

This will mark the final series of collegiate hockey for a half-dozen CC seniors, who played their last home games last weekend in dropping two to North Dakota. Among them are the Tigers two leading scorers, winger Bob Magie and center Warren Fordyce, who come into this road series only two points apart with Magie holding the lead.

In previous play this winter, CC and Michigan State split at the Broadmoor world Arena in Colorado Springs, with the Tigers taking the opener 3-1 and State coming back the next night for a 10-3 victory. That was one of the most lop-sided losses on CC's record this year.

Last week the Bengals dropped a pair to the NoDaks, 8-2 and 7-6 in overtime. And if the Colorado skaters can keep up the pace of their last outing they should definitely have a shot at ending the season on a winning note.

Heroes of the clash with the league champions were junior wing Glen Blumer, who scored a perfect hat trick in the opening period of Saturday's game with three goals, and sophomore winger Bob Lindberg who picked up two goals in the second period. CC raced to a 5-0 lead, and still hung on by 6-2 at the end of the second period, but then could not hold back the surge of the powerful Sioux who scored four times in the third chapter to tie the game.

Dakota's team captina Don Ross scored the winner in the overtime.

Other seniors besides Magie and Fordyce who will be writing finis to their college play are Jeff Sauer, Bob Otto, Dave Scrim, and Roger Simon. Defenseman Ken Hanson is also a senior, but has not played for several weeks because of injury.

TIGER TALES — Coach Johnson and CC Athletic Director Jerry Carle have both spent much of this week traveling through the north country of the United States and into Canada, recruiting for next year's freshmen.

It's expected that there will be scheduling between nearly all the teams in the league — for a change — next season, following the meeting of WCHA coaches early in March. Coaches from throughout the land will meet March 18-20, in conjunction with the NCAA tournament at Providence, RI.

New Mexico Accepts Bid From NIT Tournament

The New Mexico Lobos got their wish. They are coming back to the National Invitation college basketball tournament in New York where a year ago they took an 86-54 drubbing from Bradley in the final.

"This is what we've been going for all season," said coach Bob King after the Lobos accepted an NIT bid Thursday night.

New Mexico's acceptance shared the headlines with the 23rd straight victory of the nationally sixth-ranked Davidson Wildcats.

The Wildcats whipped Virginia Military 86-73 in the first round of the Southern Conference championship tourney at Charlotte and advanced to the semifinals with West Virginia, Virginia Tech and William and Mary.

Tulsa defeated North Texas 87-77, Xavier of Ohio downed Memphis State 95-74, Massachusetts edged Boston U. 87-83 and Utah State crushed Montana State 98-71 in other games.

Fred Hetzel's 31 points paced Davidson over the team that upset the Wildcats in last year's Southern Conference tournament. The Wildcats play West Virginia tonight in one semifinal with William and Mary meeting Virginia Tech in the other semi.

William and Mary advanced by downing The Citadel 68-60 and Virginia Tech romped over Richmond 103-63.

Rick Park tossed in 36 points to lead Tulsa to a home court triumph over North Texas while Clarence Hill's 28 points paced Massachusetts over Boston U. at Amherst, Mass. LeRoy Walker's 37 points led Utah State over Montana State at Logan, Utah.

New Mexico was the sixth team named to the NIT. The Lobos, 10th-ranked in The Associated Press poll with a 19-3 record, accepted after St. John's 16-6, and Texas Western, 17-8, were named earlier Thursday. Villanova, Boston College and Detroit had accepted Wednesday.

The NCAA tournament, which determines the national champion, did not announce the identity of the last team to fill its 23-team field but Texas Tech, the Southwest Conference leader, disclosed it would not compete.

Dr. J. William Davis, chairman of the faculty athletic committee at Texas Tech, said that it had been discovered that Norman Reuther, star of the team, was scholastically ineligible.

Southern Methodist, the current runner-up, now is expected to represent the SWC in the NCAA tourney which starts March 8. The NIT opens march 11.

Texas Tech Cage Star Ineligible

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — League-leading Texas Tech, apparently coasting toward the Southwest Conference basketball championship, saw its hopes shattered Thursday when it was announced a leading player was ineligible.

Tech officials announced that the Red Raiders were withdrawing from championship consideration because a check had revealed that Norman Reuther, a junior from Fort Worth, was scholastically ineligible.

Reuther has scored 351 points this season and ranks sixth in the conference.

The raiders were leading the conference with a 9-2 mark, a full game in front of Southern Methodist, 8-3. Tech had beaten SMU twice this season.

Howard Grubbs, executive secretary of the conference, said none of Tech's games would be forfeited as a result of the ineligibility. He said Tech would play out the remaining three games on its regular schedule.

Grubbs said the conference member — excepting Tech — that has the highest percentage after the season's final games March 4 would be the champion and represent the loop in the NCAA tournament.

Falcons Open Road Swing Against CSU Rams Tonight

FT. COLLINS—All but counted out of a winning record this season, the Air Force Academy is nonetheless shooting for a big finish to the basketball campaign this weekend and through next week.

The Falcons take on NCAA tournament-bound Colorado State University here this evening, and then travel on to Laramie, Wyo., Saturday night to tackle the proud Cowpokes of the University of Wyoming.

A loss in either game, and the AFA will be decided underdogs in both, will doom them to a losing record — a third straight by the Cadets. Still, they could end the slate on a happy note by grabbing off one of these prize plums. The AFA now has an 8-11 record.

After this weekend, the Falcons move into Denver to play the University of Denver on Wednesday evening, and then the schedule comes to a close next Saturday with the Air Force's final home appearance in a return go with CSU.

It's a rugged ending to what has been a trouble-filled season, but none of these games is entirely out of reach.

Tonight's game will be a return match between the Falcons and Aggies, with the previous game being early in the winter in the first round of the Mile High Classic in Denver. In that one, the Aggies shaded the AFA 68-66 in overtime and then CSU went on to win the four team tourney over Denver and Colorado University.

Coach Jim Williams' Rams have since won 13 of 19 games and they will be trying to end their home season with victories over the Academy and then Saturday against Montana State College. Tipoff both nights is slated for 8 p.m.

This has always been a peppery series between these two regional rivals, with Colorado State owning a 7-4 lead overall since the first meeting back in the 1956-57 season. In two games last year and the one so far this winter only seven points have separated the teams. Last year the Air Force copped a 48-46 thriller at Ft. Collins, but the Aggies came back with a 69-66 reversal at the Academy.

Scoring balance and better board play have marked CSU's recent play, which includes a conquest of Utah State (without the late All-America Wayne Estes in the lineup) last weekend. Lonnie Wright and Sonny Bustion, who collected 23 points each led the attack, while guard Tom Vidakovich had 15 and Bill Westoby came through with 12.

These have been the leaders most of the season, with Colorado Springs' Darrell Greene seeing frequent duty as a first line reserve. Greene currently is listed sixth in CSU scoring, right behind another sophomore Bill Key, who has missed some practice lately with a concussion.

The Air Force, too, offers balanced scoring this season with three sophomores in the regular starting lineup. Junior forward Sam Peshut leads the AFA attack with nearly 14 points per game, but following closely are forward Fred Budinger, guard Pete Hugdahl, and center Ed Sullivan — in averaging in double figures. Budinger and Hugdahl are both sophs.

Saturday's Wyoming match will also be a re-run of an earlier clash, which took place at the Academy. Expected to pace the Pokes, again, is their high-flying Flynn Robinson, who ranks among the top 10 scorers in the nation with over 25 points per game. The Air Force lost that previous test, 75-62, and about the same result is anticipated this round.

Bonavena Faces Folley In Garden 10-Rounder

NEW YORK (AP) — Argentina's undefeated Oscar Bonavena, eager to get a fat purse, steps up in class tonight against heavyweight contender Zora Folley in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Although the muscular 22-year-old South American is fighting a ranking heavyweight for the first time, he has been made a surprising 8-5 favorite over the 32-year-old veteran from Chandler, Ariz.

On the basis of style and experience, the odds seem silly. Oscar, of course, can make it look good with one swipe of his powerful left hook. That's what his supporters are counting on.

In eight fights since he turned pro 13 months ago, the 200-pound mop-haired brawler has won seven by knockouts and one by decision. He has fought no one of consequence with the possible exception of the fading Tom McNeeley whom he stopped in five.

Folley, a slick boxer with a nifty left jab, has a 68-7-4 record in 11½ years of pro battling. He has scored 38 knockouts and been stopped five times. Doug Jones was the last one to stop him, halting Zora in the seventh round in the Garden, Dec. 15, 1962.

The six-foot, 209-pound veteran's last loss was a 10-round decision to top-ranking Ernie Terrell, July 27, 1963.

Since then Folley has gone unbeaten in six bouts, including a draw in Germany with Karl Mildenberger. His victims included George Chuvalo, the Canadian champion, in a 10-rounder, and Germany's Gerhard Zeck on a fourth round knockout last Nov. 13.

"Bonavena shouldn't touch him with a handful of rice," said one boxer watching Folley work out this week.

"I'll knock him out in the second round," predicts the brash Bonavena, taking a cue from Cassius Clay.

CC Tankers Set Nine New Records

Colorado College swimmers set nine new school records during the past season.

Mike Lester, top point man from South Bend, Ind., was in on four of the new marks. Les Gifford of Aurora set two of the new records.

The Tiger tankers finished the season with a 6-3 record, including first place in the first annual Colorado College Invitational Relays. CC lost to Colorado Mines, Colorado State College and olorado State University.

They defeated Mines, Regis (twice) and Western State (twice) as well as taking the relays victory.

Lester swam on two record-setting relay teams, the 400-yard medley relay and 400-yard freestyle. The medley relay relay team of Rick Reibesell, Pete Ballantine, Bob Grant and Lester posted a 4:19.8 effort. The freestyle relay of Lester, Don Campbell, Dave Pearce and Dick Coil swam the distance in 3:44.2.

Lester also broke the record in the 100-yard freestyle and tied the 50-yard freestyle mark. Coil broke the 200-yard freestyle standard.

Gifford set new marks in the 200-yard individual medley and the 500-yard freestyle. Andy Brandt of Colorado Springs set a new point record in the diving event. Ted Davis posted a new 200-yard backstroke target and Reibesell snapped the 200-yard breaststroke record.

The Tigers lose only Grant to graduation next season.

"We had a fine season," coach Jerry Lear said. "No one man stood out far above the others. It was a team effort all the way. The leadership from co-captains Jim Reiley and Dick Coil was excellent."

Europeans Working for Title Sweep In World Figure Skating Tournament

Visiting European figure skaters got down to serious training today for what they hope will be their second straight sweep of all four titles in the World Figure Skating Championships.

And entrants from the United States dug in for what is considered their best chance at world titles since 1961.

The World meet gets rolling this coming Tuesday and runs through next Saturday night at the Broadmoor World Arena. And until the actual competition is underway, the skaters from throughout the globe have been practicing hard, touching up final plans for their various routines.

The altitude—6,500 feet above sea level and 'way over the heads of most native lands from which these skaters come—was beginning to show its effects on Thursday . . . whether it be psychological or physical.

Many of the Europeans had started to complain of loss of strength in the mountain air, and some were taking extra vitamins and oxygen. The Canadians have been consuming iron pills for several weeks, trying to combat the change in atmosphere. And there were even a few gripes about the ice surface at the World Arena — dancers claiming that one corner was dipping to the outside and throwing them off on turns.

However, most of this talk only reflected the tension that has been building over the past couple days as the championships near. These skaters, most of them still in their teens, have worked years for the chance to represent their countries in this competition.

Ninety-five skaters are entered, and the total includes 18 from the United States, the only nation to qualify three entrants in all four events. Competition will be in men's singles, ladies' singles, pairs and ice dance, the last two being two-skater events.

U.S. skaters performed uniformly well in last year's championships at Dortmund, West Germany, resulting in the full qualification. None won titles, however.

Three of last year's champions have since retired or turned professional. Favorites in the meet next week include Paul and Eva Roman of Prague, Czechoslovakia, seeking their fourth title in ice dance. Ljudmila Belousova and Oleg Protopopov of Russia are top-rated in pairs, having been second in the last three world meets and first in last year's Olympic Games.

In singles, favorites are Regine Heitzsr of Austria, the European champion and world runner-up in 1963 and 1964, and Alain Calmat of France, second in the world meet last year and the previous year.

Skaters given the best chance of breaking the European monopoly include Petra Burka of Toronto, Canadian and North American women's champion and generally regarded as the finest freestyle skater in the world. Freestyle counts for 40 per cent and compulsory figures 60 per cent in scoring.

Gary Visconti of Detroit and Scott Allen of Smoke Rise, N.J., are considered the best U.S. hopes for a title, both in men's singles. Allen won a bronze medal in the Olympics last year but was runner-up to Visconti in this year's U.S. and North American Championships.

Whitey, Turley Trying Comebacks This Season

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Whitey Ford and Bob Turley pitched together with the New York Yankees for eight years. During that time they each won the Cy Young award as the best pitcher in the major leagues.

Now, playing in different leagues, they again find themselves in similar circumstances. This time, though, they aren't winning pennants and world championships, and they aren't earning awards.

Ford is trying to prove his valuable left arm is sound while Turley attempts a comeback — after a year's absence — with the Houston Astros.

The 36-year-old Ford developed a vascular problem that created arm trouble in the final month last season. He underwent surgery to correct the difficulty during the off-season and now faces a test in spring training.

He threw lightly for six minutes in the Yankees' first drill Thursday, then said:

"My arm feels all right, but this was just loosening up. I'll be able to tell more after I pitch to hitters. I'll throw harder each day, but I might skip a day. I believe I'll be able to throw regular pitches hard after a week or so."

Turley, whose 21-7 record in 1958 earned him the Cy Young honor, indicated Thursday he is pleased with his comeback efforts to date. The 34-year-old right-hander has no contract with Houston but has been working out with the Astros since Feb. 15.

"I'm really happy because I'd rather be with Paul Richards (Houston general manager) than anyone I know because he has done so much for veteran pitchers," said Turley, who coached with the Boston Red Sox in 1964.

"The first time he saw me this spring, he came up after three pitches and told me I was stopping my motion when I reared back. That's something I have been doing wrong the past three years. Nobody else spotted it, and it's difficult to correct your own faults."

Another sore-armed pitcher, Ernie Broglio of the Chicago Cubs, also tested his arm Thursday and said, "I threw every pitch I have, and my elbow didn't hurt a bit."

Pitcher Bob Bolin of San Francisco suffered a knee injury Thursday night in a two-car collision in Monroe, La. Headed for the Giants' Phoenix, Ariz., training camp, Bolin was hospitalized for observation and X rays.

At the Kansas City camp, first baseman Jim Gentile was told a recently sprained left ankle will prevent him from working out for at least another week.

And from the Pittsburgh Pirates came word that right fielder Roberto Clemente, the 1964 National League batting champion, was home in Puerto Rico with the flu.

TITLE CONTENDER—Canada's Petra Burka has been tabbed as one of the leading contenders for the Ladies' Singles crown in the World Figure Skating Championships, to be held at the Broadmoor's World Arena next week, Tuesday through Saturday night. Miss Burka, who placed third in both the World and Olympic competition last year, recently won the North American title over U.S. leaders Peggy Fleming and Colorado Springs' Christine Haigler.

Top Stars Bypass K of C Track Meet in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The meet was in New York, but the story was in Toronto. Or maybe San Francisco. Or perhaps at home in bed.

The outstanding athlete award in Thursday's Knights of Columbus indoor track meet went to Witold Baran of Poland. He ran a 4:05.7 mile and wasn't even around at the finish to pick up the plaque — a top-off to the whole affair.

Bill Crothers, most exciting of the runners on the indoor circuit this season, was snowbound by a blizzard in Toronto along with the rest of the Canadian complement.

The Russian delegation, headed by high jumper Valery Brumel and broad jumper Igor Ter-Ovanesyan, was in San Francisco for the Golden Gate Invitational tonight, next stop on another three-day, multiple city swing on the indoor circuit.

Shot putter Gary Gubner was at home nursing a sore elbow.

Retired Man Picks Twin Double

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 70-year-old retired antique shop owner who has been playing the horses for decades won $108,242.40 Thursday on the twin double at Hialeah.

But he wouldn't say whether the check put him ahead of the game or not.

The winner asked that his name not be used because he said he was afraid of robbers. He said he handicaps and bets the horses scientifically.

"I have a record of every bet, every winner, every loser," he said. "Sometimes it's a very expensive hobby, and sometimes, like now, it's a very pleasurable one."

He said he also keeps his own charts on jockeys and horses, but he wouldn't go into the system any further.

One prime ingredient of it is obviously a lot of cash.

He said he had 120 good tickets going into the second half of the twin.

That means he bet at least $240, even if he was sure of the winners in the first two races. He could have bet much more, particularly since the winner of the fourth race was a 13-1 shot and the winner of the fifth race was 6-1.

"Yes, I had a sure thing after the first two races," he said. "I had 120 tickets and bet every horse in the last two races."

He had some anxious moments when stewards made an inquiry into the 7th race, won by longshot Moral Suasion. Had Moral Suasion been disqualified, the twin would have paid about $20,000.

The retired businessman, who also won a $75,000 twin double at Tropical last year, said he was opposed to twin doubles.

"I'm still opposed to the twin double," he said. "I like to bet on one horse in one race. That was real horse racing."

His sentiments didn't stop him from walking up to the pari-mutuel window, signing a form for the Internal Revenue Service and taking a check for the full amont.

The largest win double payoff, which requires a bettor to name four winners, was $172,726.80, at Roosevelt Raceway harness track, Sept. 10. Several other harness track payoffs have been larger than this one at Hialeah. The closest flat track payoff was $84,692.20, at Gulfstream last April, won by a couple of hotel employes playing hunches.

The rest of this double was Countess Jan, 27.40, in the fourth race; Nitelife Charlie, $13.60 in the fifth, and Hi Biscuit, $6.60 in the sixth.

By The Associated Press

Here are the biggest twin doubles payoffs on record. All for a $2 bet. Winning numbers also listed.

1. $172,726.80, Sept. 10, 1964, at Roosevelt Raceway, harness track, 4-1-8-8.
2. $171,084.60, Oct. 21, 1964, at Yonkers Raceway, harness track, 2-7-6-7.
3. $132,232.80, April 28, 1964, at Roosevelt Raceway, harness track, 7-5-1-2.
4. $127,552.70, Feb. 22, 1965, at Yonkers Raceway, harness track, 7-7-4-3.
5. $108,242.80, Feb. 25, 1965, at Hialeah, thoroughbred track, 8-4-3-1.
6. $98,237, Nov. 12, 1964, at Yonkers Raceway, harness track, 5-5-7-4.

Venturi Set to Rejoin Pro Team

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Golfer Ken Venturi sidelined for weeks by a circulatory ailment, will hit the tournament trail again next week with his physician's blessing.

The U.S. Open champion disclosed his plans Thursday.

"My game naturally is pretty rusty," he said, "but I am itching to play."

Venturi said he'll return to his home at Hillsborough, south of San Francisco, on Saturday and will head for Florida on Tuesday.

He'll rejoin the PGA tour in the Pensacola Open the following weekend.

Venturi's ailment has been particularly bothersome in his hands. It began developing during the Los Angeles Open the first week of January.

"At first the trouble was in both hands," he said, "but now it is only in the right hand — the middle and little finger. There is a big improvement."

Venturi has been recuperating in the desert sun under the watchful care of Dr. Robert M. Woods, team physician for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Dr. Woods, who once treated pitching star Sandy Koufax for a similar ailment, said it may take some time for Venturi to get his rhythm back, adding:

FALLOUT SHELTERS

NEW YORK (AP)—New York is the first city in the nation to stockpile supplies for over a million persons in community fallout shelters throughout the five boroughs.

Supplies have been stored in 1,874 structures so far and deliveries will continue until emergency stockpiles have been placed in 25,070 buildings containing fallout shelter spaces for more than 13 million persons, Civil Defense Director Robert E. Condon announced.

Nixon Is Urging 'Relentless' Viet Nam War

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States should make "continuous and relentless" air and sea attacks on Communist troops in North Viet Nam to halt the flow of arms to Communist guerrillas in the South, says Richard M. Nixon.

The former vice president also urged that President Johnson forego any Viet Nam negotiations presently and said he was flatly opposed to turning over negotiations to the United Nations.

Speaking at a $100-a-plate Illinois Republican fund raising dinner Thursday night, Nixon said: "We must win the war in Viet Nam. This does not mean to spread it, but to contain it with air and sea power, and to destroy the flow of men and materials into South Viet Nam."

In opposing turning over the Viet Nam situation to the U.N., Nixon said:

"To turn an issue so vital to the security of the United States over to the U.N. at this time would be to get a watered down solution for the weak and the timid."

Calling for a presidential decision within a matter of days, Nixon suggested that Johnson call a summit conference of free Asian nations.

"United States security is not all that is at stake in Viet Nam. Japan, the Philippines, South Korea, Taiwan, Thailand and other free Asian nations must be mobilized," he said.

If South Viet Nam is lost either by negotiation or American withdrawal, said Nixon, all Southeast Asia would eventually fall under Communist domination.

"It would be leaving Viet Nam to the Communists to take over. This is what happened in Laos," he said.

Unless a decision is made within the next week or 10 days, said Nixon, we may be forced to make a decision not in the best interest of the U.S.

Nixon called Red China a "fourth-rate military power" and discounted the possibility of the Asian giant entering the Viet Nam war.

But, he continued, the risk involved in not taking a strong stand in Viet Nam increases with time, since in a few years Red China may have a major nuclear and industrial capacity.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to push higher on average early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Gains by selected blue chips gave support to the list which had to undergo profit taking in various groups because of the prolonged rally.

Industrials were in their sixth straight session of advance. The Dow Jones industrial average once again nudged above the significant "900" level which was regarded again as a psychological barrier as it was some weeks ago when it was pierced for the first time.

A generally higher trend prevailed among airlines, aerospace issues, chemicals, nonferrous metals, mail order-retails and rubbers.

The top steels took fractional losses. Motors were unchanged to irregularly lower. Oils, tobaccos and building materials were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 336.0 with industrials up .9, rails unchanged and utilities off .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.10 at 902.00.

Gains of more than a point by Du Pont and Eastman Kodak bolstered the popular market averages.

Fractional losses were shown by such stocks as Ford, Chrysler, U.S. Steel, Texaco, Bethlehem, Union Carbide, Republic Steel and U.S. Gypsum.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds showed little change.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean futures worked prices upward today in reaction to the week's earlier price declines, but there was no specific news on which to elevate prices.

Except for a few longs taking profits on six-month holdings, it was a trading market, with commission houses and commercial interests buying.

It was a trading market, also, for other grains, but on a narrow scale both as to price and volume of business.

Carlot receipts were estimated at: wheat 2 cars, corn 197, oats 1, rye none, barley 4, soybeans 5.

Companies Gain From Investment Tax Credits

More than 249,000 corporations — about one-fifth of the 1.2 million firms filing income tax returns — claimed the investment credit for tax savings of nearly $834 million, the first year the credit was available in 1962, reports Commerce Clearing House.

This 7 per cent credit applies to the purchase of certain depreciable property used in a trade or business. The credit was created in the Revenue Act of 1962 as a business stimulant.

The number of corporations taking the credit was about two-fifths of the 602,000 firms reporting an income tax for the period, according to a CCH study of the first figures available on the subject.

Cost of the property eligible fo the investment credit was listed by the Internal Revnue Service at more than $22 billion, with $20 billion of this amount being reported by corporations showing a profit for the year. The balance of $2 billion was reported by companies showing a loss. Such loss companies can carry the credit forward through 1967 as a buffer against income tax to the tune of $304 million.

Nearly $11 billion worth of eligible property was bought by companies among the 638 corporations with total assets of $250 million or more, with public utilities reporting more than $6 billion of this amount, and manufacturing firms claiming about $4 billion, CCH said.

Of the property purchased by the less-than-$250 million-corporations, public utilities reported more than $2 billion, while manufacturing corporations reported $5 billion.

Manufacturing firms claimed about one-half of the total investment credit for the year and public utilities reported about $260 million, or 60 per cent of the total claimed by all nonmanufacturers, CCH reported.

Florence Paper Takes Top Award

The Florence Citizen took the top major prize for Colorado weekly newspapers with a circulation over 1,200 at the 87th annual Colorado Press Association convention held Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the Brown Palace hotel in Denver.

The Citizen was awarded the coveted General Excellence sweepstakes award at the awards luncheon Saturday noon in the grand ballroom of the hotel, which served as convention headquarters for nearly 800 registered newspaper delegates throughout the state.

Venezuela ranks third only to the United States and Soviet Russia in petroleum production.

Local Salesmen To Receive Victor Award

Mary Lamar and Loy Jaumott, both of Consolidated Industries, Inc., and Charles L. Snelling of Frito-Lay, Inc., all of Colorado Springs, will be three of 28 men and two women nominated by their companies as star salesmen to receive the coveted Sales and Marketing Executives Victor Award at the 15th Annual Colorado Distinguished Salesman's Award Banquet, tonight, in Denver at the Hilton Hotel.

Denver Mayor Thomas G. Currigan will make the Victor Award presentations to the 30 distinguished salesmen and women. To obtain this award, these men and women were nominated by their companies as "Star Salesmen." The companies they represent are all Denver-headquartered organiza tions, but the recipients of the award come from Casper, Wyo.; Colorado Springs; Pueblo; Tulsa, Okla. — as well as Denver.

According to L. Ellsworth Perry, regional sales manager, United Air Lines, and chairman of the Denver DSA Banquet, Distinguished Salesman's Award Banquets are sponsored by Sales and Marketing Executives' clubs in more than 100 major cities throughout the country. "It's a community program to give public recognition to the top salesmen and women as the spark plug of our competitive system, and for the part they play in making ours the highest standard of living in history," Perry outlined.

Each award winner receives a Victor statuette trophy. Since the program is national in scope, the top salesman is assured that, regardless of where he travels, his achievement as a DSA winner will be recognized and held in the highest esteem by people in the selling profession, everywhere.

Perry pointed out that DSA Banquets are held throughout the U. S. as part of the Sales and Marketing Executives-International program for National Salesman's Week, which was last week and in Colorado included a proclamation of Colorado Salesmanship Week by Gov. John A. Love.

The goal of SME-I is to further elevate and dignify the profession of selling, the largest profession in the U. S.

Heartsill Wilson, often billed as America's dynamic voice of salesmanship, will keynote the DSA Banquet, speaking before an estimated 550 salesmen, sales executives and their wives attending the banquet.

Kaman Nuclear Installs Large Scale Computer

Kaman Nuclear, Colorado Sprngs, has installed a large-scale Control Data 3400 computer system. The announcement was made today by George S. Hanson, control data Corporation vice president of marketing, and Dr. Kenneth W. Erickson, general manager of Kaman's Nuclear Division and corporate vice president of Kaman Aircraft Corp.

Kaman Nuclear is one of the nation's foremost research and development organizations. Analytical studies ranging through a broad spectrum of science and engineering, form a principal portion of the division's activities.

In addition, Kaman's product lines include such instruments as neutron generators, activation analysis system, fast burst reactors, pressure transducers, and microwave systems.

Kaman will use the 3400 system to fulfill its computational requirements in scientific and operations analysis, research and development, and to conduct commercial data processing.

Specific applications to be run on the 3400 will be nuclear codes, weapon effects, trajectory studies, war game models, PERT networks, and business data processing.

According to Dr. Erickson: "The 3400 was selected because of its over-all computational power, total system cost, adaptability to varying types of applications, and highly compatible software packages.

Taxless Govt. Funded By Services Payments

Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of articles in which the business editor of The Freedom Newspaper sets forth a method other than taxes for the financing of government. The series is titled "Government Without Taxation.")

By SAM CAMPBELL

The money to operate taxless governments comes from sales of services.

In fairness, it should be emphasized that the term "government" is used here in its functional sense as meaning "law and order." This employment of the word distinguishes it from "government" in the structural sense.

However, rather than deal in abstractions, let us take a specific case and see how government can be financed without taxation. Schools that absorb almost 50 per cent of every tax dollar are a good example.

In the school system, as it now exists, we see the classic outline of mis-government. The teachers and the administrators do not have authority commensurate with their tasks. They lack freedom to instruct. They must brook daily not only the discipline problems of students, but also the irritations of parents, the whims of the State Legislature, and the interferences of an elective board.

Now let us apply a little science to that tangled scene. First, let us mentally remove the jurisdiction of the Legislature. Second, let us eliminate the intereference of the elective board, the chief qualification of which is to get elected again. Third, let us put the schooling job totally in the hands of the school people.

Then in order to supply the financing to operate the schools, let us introduce a system of direct accountability. By this system, a parent that receives the services of the school makes a direct payment to the school administrator who in turn pays the teachers for their teaching efforts. The bi-lateral transaction gives parent and schoolmen a direct accountability to one another, without the interposition of third parties.

Having so remodeled the school system in principle, let us visualize it operationally. Looking ahead, we perceive a possibility that teachers and administrators form corporations to lease existing school facilities, and ultimately to buy them. But a greater transformation has taken place in the classroom.

Now the student is in the classroom by the choice both of his parents and his teacher. If, because of the pupil's behavior, that arrangement becomes unsatisfactory, the teacher has the power to withdraw the classroom privilege. For his part, the pupil understands he could lose his social standing. More important the teacher understands. No longer is he at the mercy of outside forces. There is AUTHORITY in the classroom. This is government in its real sense.

In the schooling field, government without taxation has important by-products. Teachers of superior dedication have opportunity to build a name for their skill in the creation of learning situations. Parents have opportunity to bid for superior instruction. Teaching specialities will develop to meet peculiar situations. It is not inconceivable that teachers will rise to a financial status equivalent to that of doctors, will travel abroad, bringing back the educational enrichment of the world's cultures.

In view of the gains that conservatively can be anticipated, it is reasonable to suppose that those children who lack the family financial support for schooling will be adequately cared for. By its very nature teaching is a compassionate profession. Now it would have the means to express this native generosity.

In summary, the case for government without taxation rests not upon a claim to perfection or as a cure-all for all human woe. Just as the perfect bridge never has been built, so government of any kind always will be marred by human weaknesses. Even so — even though governmental systems never can be any better than the men who comprise them — yet they can be a lot worse. If, as some would contend, government without taxation does not meet every problem, yet it does meet specific problems.

Certainly, it applies to schooling. The concept is a challenge and a call to opportunity that should stir the teaching profession to its very foundation.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Government Controls Based on Ignorance

The trouble with the socialist mentality is that it invariably wishes to manage that which it cannot comprehend.

This is a very human failing, and presumably all of us have it to some degree.

We've noticed so often, in talking with businessmen, that most of them will attest with some heat that they do not require the government regulating THEIR business. But as we discuss businesses other than their own, and about which they obviously have less information, the apparent necessity for some kind of government regulation seems more urgent. The less we know, the more we tend to look to government to solve problems for us. The problem is thus both general and specific.

Most free market economists will tell you that the complexities arising in a free market, where buying and selling occur according to the wishes and values of all the participants, are far too complicated a procedure to be submitted to some central authority. It is this complexity which is so infuriating to a socialist mentality. If he can't understand how all these millions of exchanges occur every day (and he can't), then it seems to him that the whole process is chaotic and a mark of anarchy.

How can order occur unless it is centrally provided?

We were impressed with Rose Wilder Lane's discussion of this point in her book, "Discovery of Freedom." We quote from page 29:

"In any civilization, the use of force is the whole difference between government and any other organized group of men. The need for government is the need for force; where force is unnecessary, there is no need for government.

"Without the use of force, men direct the marvelous organized efficiency of the circus, loading, unloading, transporting and parading hundreds of people and animals, establishing and demolishing a tent-city on a sechedule of minutes. One man directs all these intricate activities, by general consent. Anyone who doesn't consent can quit.

"Without the use of force, men control the almost infinite complexities of radio, networks of human and other energies encircling the earth and working twenty-four hours a day on a schedule of seconds. Directors control it by the consent of thousands of men all over the earth. If a man in the Ural mountains, in the Sahara desert, in Australia, doesn't want to be at the mike when a man in New York wants him to be there, he can cut bait and go fishing. The only penalty is that if he quits, he has quit.

"A traffic cop directs traffic by general consent, too. But he is government; he has the use of force. When the traffic cop moves his thumb, a driver pulls to the curb. It he does not, he will eventually be stopped by force. He shows up in court when he is told to be there, too (unless he has a pull at City Hall and uses it); if he does not, policemen will take him there, by force if necessary. He pays his fine, and with no back talk, or he will be put in jail by as much force as is needed to put him there.

"A club member pays his dues because he wants to. If he does not want to, he does not pay them, and he is no longer a member of the club. . .

"But a use of force is not CONTROL. No living ruler has ever actually controlled his subjects. There is no superhuman power in government; men in government have no natural nor divine superiority to any other man. And no man can control another. No possible use of force can compel any individual to act. A use of force upon him can only hinder, restrict, or stop his acting.

"In actual fact, CONSENT TO GOVERNMENT IS CONSENT TO A USE OF FORCE TO HINDER, RESTRAIN, OR STOP INDIVIDUALS AND MINORITIES WHO ACT IN WAYS THAT A MAJORITY DOES NOT APPROVE OR DOES NOT ACT TO DEFEND."

Thus, as it turns out, order and control are not products of government. Men create order by controlling themselves and their enormous productive efforts. By turning to government to regulate the businesses of others, we really do not assist in providing for regulation. We assist in providing for hindrance, restraint and stoppage of men in their constructive and productive efforts.

This is the inevitable result of socialism. Because socialism does not understand production, it seeks to control it. By controlling it, production is finally hindered, restrained and ultimately stopped if the socialism is total.

Insurance On the Increase

To say that insurance is big business is to repeat a well worn cliche. But there is probably no business in the country that is growing faster than the insurance business. Life insurance alone increased its total assets by nearly eight billion during 11 months in 1964. At the close of the year 1963 total assets amounted to 141 billion, 121 million dollars. At the end of November, 1964, they totaled 148 billion, 746 million.

State by state, the increase in insurance buying ranged from six per cent in Arizona to 21 per cent in Alaska and Delaware for a national average of 12 per cent. And even greater growth is expected for 1965.

There are 22 life insurance companies in the United States that are more than 100 years old. The oldest is the "Presbyterian Ministers' Fund" which was founded in 1759.

Most of the insurance companies' holdings are invested in corporate bonds, such as railroads, public utilities and industrials; in preferred and common stocks; in commercial and residential mortgages; farm mortgages; real estate, etc. But far too much of it (12 billion, 252 million) is invested in federal, state and local and foreign government bonds. We consider this part of insurance investment as more or less shaky and unstable.

But the amount invested in various categories of business is sound enough, and probably great enough, to offset any losses accruing from governmental delinquencies.

Exclusive of government bonds, an investment in insurance is an investment in the economy of the nation. This makes capitalists of all of us who own life insurance policies and, nowadays, nearly everyone does. This being the case, we should all be interested in keeping the economy on a sound footing in order to protect our investment. We should resent any cheapening of the dollar (inflation) by the government and any political interference with the free operation of the economy. But, alas, we haven't been watchful enough.

We have allowed the government to inflate the currency at a faster rate than we have been able to pile up savings, in insurance or other "safe" investments. The 8 billion increase in total insurance assets in 11 months sounds big. But when we consider that since 1945 the dollar has decreased in purchasing power at the rate of approximately three per cent per annum, we can perceive that our gains are hardly equal to our losses. They are "paper gains" that would be meaningless in a final showdown.

If you bought an endowment type life policy in 1945 for, say, $10,000 and it matures in 1965, your $10,000 will be worth what $4,000 was worth when you bought the policy. The government has robbed you of $6,000, while you have been trying desperately to accumulate a nest egg for your old age, or any other purpose. Three per cent a year in decreased purchasing power, leaves us with 40 cent dollars when compared to the 1945 ones.

The Institute of Life Insurance has issued a new booklet for use in schools entitled "The Search for Economic Security." And, of course, nearly all of us who buy life insurance are, in a sense, searching for economic security.

But what chance have the people to find economic security with the termites of inflation eating away at the value of our savings? But that is the way the "Great Society" wants it. The politicians want to make us all dependent on the government. The Great Society is a socialist state. Our savings are, even now, being confiscated through governmental engineered inflation and being passed out to the "needy indolent" in a share the wealth program that started in the 1930s.

STRANGER IN DOWNTOWN

To the Editor:

Have you heard about the man who feels he is helping the "Great Society?" (1) He earned less than $3,000.00 last year. (2) He is receiving unemployment compensation. (3) He is on relief. (4 He didn't intend to cooperate with LBJ because he is a Republican, but he is past 45 years of age, a point in life, it seems, where you are "too old" to get a job and "too young" for Social Security and Medicare.

I am not trying to be critical, but it might make an interesting survey for your excellent business editor, Dick Moore, with the help of some real estate expert and business analyst to discover the reason for the growing number of empty stores in the downtown area. The variety of businesses going "out of business" cover women apparels, gift shops, military supplies, fabric shops, finance companies, men's clothing, etc. So it is obvious that it is not just one type of business, but a definite "cross-section" of free enterprise!

Dun and Bradstreet states that the main causes for business failures are (1) lack of experience (2) lack of knowledge (proper accounting). I don't feel that the parking situation has too much to do with this problem as there are other stores doing business.

This letter is not intended to be "critical" against any form of government or taxation, but is a request for a reasonable explanation of the course and a program of development of business and increase of employment in our fair city, the year around.

Will you accept the assignment? It could be of great service to the community!

ACT NOW

To the Editor:

Never in the history of the United States has our international prestige been lower. There are almost daily attacks on our United States Information Agency libraries, legations, consuls, and embassies. Perhaps the most serious of these was the "spontaneous" rioting in which the U.S.I.A. library containing the priceless J.F.K. touring exhibit was ransacked and burnt by communist punks yelling "YANKEE GO HOME," "GO JUMP IN THE NILE" and various other quaint phrases. Naturally the Egyptian "police" did nothing, probably on orders from Nasser. If local officials will not stop this kind of ugly and irresponsible act we should station a group of battle trained Marines with orders to shoot to kill any rioter trying to destroy U.S. property only after a warning shot.

During these incidences what was L.B.J. doing? In one word NOTHING! He is too busy worrying about his "Great Socialist Society" and the poor unprivileged Appalachianites who want their poverty aid or they will not vote for the fearless leader come 1968.

"YANKEE GO HOME" is a phrase heard only too often. Can the greatest nation in the world go on letting our overseas property go on being attacked by communist punks while our already small international prestige goes on getting smaller NO! WE MUST DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT AND DO IT NOW!

ANNUL SOCIALISM

To the Editor:

Those individuals who harbor socialistic notions lack the sagacity to see they are leading us back to the primitive state. These include socialists, collectivists, left of the roaders, middle-of-the-roaders, most politicians and bureaucrats plus false-label-do-gooders.

All of these groups can be ignored to a great extent by people who work along constructive lines. Constructors tend to be people with good will who attract others with good will particularly entrepreneurs.

We need several million more of the latter to do this vitally important constructive work, little entrepreneurs and bigger ones too.

When the illusions of socalism are clearly seen they are ignored by all who can do a modium of thinking.

NO ROOM FOR CHEATNG

To the Editor:

In the Gazette-Telegraph for Feburary 4, 1965 a letter from Ruth Poblocki speaks harshly of politicians, of us who sent them to their posts, and makes excuses for cheating at the USAF Academy, on the basis that we have become so corrupt that the cadets are just acting naturally.

Even if her position is correct (Heaven forbid!), there is NO excuse for cheating or any other form of dishonorable activity in a service academy. It is unforgivable enough in other places, but in a service academy it is absolutely unacceptable, either in itself or in the form of the faintest taint of suspicion.

The young men of the academies will be the Officer Corps of the future military strength of the nation: on them will rest the destiny of our posterity and more. They must not fail, and any hint of dishonor will cause failure of leadership of discipline, of reliability in the clinches, and of the officer's own ability — for a man without self respect is not a man, and surely not an officer.

John Paul Jones said an officer must be not only capable in his profession, but must be a gentleman with the nicest of personal honor. Living by that code, he and his forces did pretty well for our young country—against enemies sometimes hampered by corruption among them.

So important was honor to the military of the past that the horrid ceremony of "Drumming Out" was resorted to in cases of dishonor as a deterrent worse than death. And it worked! An officer drummed out was stripped of his uniform devices, buttons, stripes etc. before the paraded troops of the command; an enlisted man painted a yellow stripe down his back from head to heel; he was then required to march to the slow beat of the drum — half-time — down the length of the parade ground between the companies, and as he passed each company would about face and turn their backs on him. By the time he reached the gate, watched by the town and his loved ones, he was predictably in such bad shape that suicide was a common personal solution in such cases. It was a brutal sentence, costing dreadfully in human values. It was also an effective sentence, for the military of that day had honor as their stock in trade and with it the respect of much of the populace. Thus armed (sometimes they had little else!) our early wars were won — in spades!

Reason or no, there is still absolutely no room for cheating in the academies (nor is there any, for the most part), and I for one support the concept of the Drumming Out ceremony for dishonor in the officer corps. And that includes cadets. Sorry, gentlemen: on you depends that for which I have lived, and if you are less than gentlemen —to the Devil with you!

Licensing

By BUTLER D. SHAFFER

The president of a midwestern state Plumbers Association has called for his state legislature to license and regulate the plumbing business. There is nothing new, of course in the attempt by men who are already in a particular business or profession to have their trade "licensed" so as to keep would-be competitors from entering the field. This practice has been engaged in by everyone from doctors and lawyers to electricians and plumbers, and is as old as history itself.

The Plumbers Association president stated, of course, that the main purpose of his request was to improve the standard of plumbing in his state — this is always the excuse that is given. The doctors declare they want licensing "to protect the public," as do the lawyers, barbers, engineers, surveyors, electricians, and all other license-seeking groups, but only the naive can fail to see the real purpose of their undertaking.

When there is a given demand for particular services, such as plumbing, and there are, let us say, 100 firms in that business, those presently in the plumbing business will be assured of maintaining the clientele and level of business they now have if they can limit the number of new people entering the field. This they can do by getting the state to set up a State Board of Plumbers —with themselves as members — which will have the authority to set standards and require would-be competitors to secure a license to engage in the plumbing business. Those now in the business become the judges of those seeking to become their competitors, and are given the power, by the state, to determine whether the competitor will be allowed into the market.

That the main purpose of licensing is only to regulate the number of people entering that trade — for the benefit of those already in that trade — may be seen by looking to a profession with which I am associated, the practice of law. While I was attending law school, it was the custom of the Bar Association in that state to admit to practice between 60 to 75 per cent of those taking the bar exam. When I took the Nebraska bar exam, 100 per cent passed, and in the same year a friend of mine in another state told me that less than 50 per cent of the applicants passed those exams. In addition, there are many states which require an applicant to have lived in such state for at least a year, while other states insist upon an applicant being "recommended" by a present member of the bar. How such practices can be explained in terms other than simply the elimination of competitors is rather difficult.

As Robert LeFevre has mentioned before, while the state becomes the vehicle for the control of a particular business, the state assumes no responsibility for accidents and mistakes that may be committed by someone so "licensed." (Or as one writer has facetiously commented, approximately 99.5 per cent of all automobile accidents are caused by drivers who have been "licensed" by the state.) What the state — and those groups seeking state licensing procedures — wants is the power to determine who will enter a particular business and what standards of practice they will assume.

The state cannot guarantee that quacks and charlatans will not enter the field, nor will it recompense anyone for incompetent practice; all it demands is a one-sided control.

Those who truly seek to elevate the standards of a particular business or profession are free to establish evaluation tests and seek to get those in such trade to take the tests. The results of the test could then be made public, and successful applicants could be given a certificate indicating that they had met the standards so established. Like the "Good Housekeeping Seal," such a certificate would serve to attract clients and customers to those who had met the standards of the trade, and away from those who had not. Likewise, one's reputation for quality workmanship would serve to bring more customers, which would work to the benefit of the high-quality tradesmen and to the detriment of the incompetents. As to the effect of "reputation" on one's business, the reader can certainly think of "quack" doctors and "crooked" lawyers in his city whom he would not consider patronizing.

Let us, then, not give support to those who, whether their purpose be to eliminate competitors or poor workmanship, would grant to the state the power to regulate and control standards of conduct and practice, a function which is best left to free men pursuing their self-interest in a free and unregulated market economy.

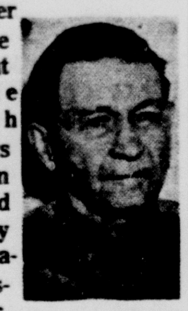
More Laws Won't Help

By RUFUS L. PORTER



With crime increasing at an alarming rate, the cry goes up in every community for more laws, stricter laws and more policemen, but that is not the answer. With 51 million laws in force in these United States every conceivable crime, misdemeanor, wrong-doing or mis-step must be covered by at least a dozen acts, laws, statutes and ordinances, with punishment for breaking them specified, spelled out, enumerated and stipulated in whereases, wherefores, heretofores, and hereafters. And the crimes appear to increase in direct ratio to the increase in the number of laws passed to "prevent" them.

There is a welter of laws for us to wallow in. There are so many useless, silly, asinine and utterly foolish laws that the citizens tend to brush off all laws and try to abide by the dictates of their own consciences. And those with no conscience (their number is increasing every day because the conscience has fallen into disrepute, has in fact, become a thing of ridicule) disregard all laws, rules and regulations and go their own criminal ways, with little to hinder them.

Criminals are coddled, babied, bawled over and bailed out — but seldom bawled out, by the courts. When an honest cop does succeed in rounding up a hooligan, hoodlum, hood, crook or bandit and haul him into court to get his comeuppance some sharp lawyer will get him sprung, paroled, pardoned and forgiven. Often the court apologizes to the crook because the cop violated his constitutional rights. All this soft treatment of criminals has emanated from the Supreme Court of the land, which for the past two or three decades has been making it continually harder for the courts to punish, or even hold, a criminal, even when he is caught red-handed.

But, even if all criminals were apprehended and incarcerated, this would not prevent crime. It would merely be punishment, retaliation, after the crime was committed. The law does not "prevent" crime; it punishes criminals, when caught and convicted. A small percentage are caught and an even smaller percentage of those are convicted. We don't need more laws; we don't need more policemen or other "peace officers." We need a different moral atmosphere.

Crime we will have always with us, as it has always been. But, with proper moral teaching, most of the young people can be brought up to respect private property, human life and the rights of others. It is not too difficult and it was being done in this country not so long ago. But the kids need something more than just training, they need examples among their elders.

There is a moral rot in this country, starting in the highest echelons and percolating down through the different strata of society to the very lowest — it is not the reverse of this, as many would have us believe.

The moral laxity, the near immorality, of our government schools is a frightening thing. We are living in a time of moral degeneracy which more laws and more police cannot halt, but can only aggravate. The blame lies with our swing into socialism. Socialism is immoral and it cannot tolerate morality among the citizens. Socialism is the great leveller. It reduces everyone to the level of the lowest, financially, socially and morally.

When and if the people come to realize the folly of socialism, the utter depravity of its concepts, and face about and start the long climb back to self discipline, self responsibility and sanity the crime problem will be swiftly reduced to its former status and cease to be our biggest headache.

To The Point

Cleverness vs. Moral Worth

Bp RUSSELL KIRK

More than 100 cadets have been dismissed from the Air Force Academy, for cheating on an examination. Although this scandal is dismaying enough, no one who has been a college professor seems particularly surprised. According to a recent survey by Mr. William J. Bowers, indeed, about 55 per cent, at least, of college under-graduates are exam-cheaters.

What is wrong with the minds and consciences of such students? This, primarily: they prefer cleverness to moral worth. They do not aspire to be decent and worthy people; they seek, rather, to be materially successful people. They no longer emulate the saint in his godly virtue nor the knight in his manly virtue; they want neither salvation nor honor; they fancy they will be made happy by a creature-comfort triumph achieved, if necessary, through fraud.

In the days when I used to deal, as a college teacher, with masses of undergraduates, I detected a great many cheating students — though not, probably, so many as flourish today, per head of student population. Many of the frauds were detected with the greatest of ease. Young people too dull or too indolent to do their own work also often, are too dull or too indolent even to cheat skillfully. They are as incompetent as confidence-men as they would be in some reputable pursuit.

When I taxed cheating students with their detected fraud, few were ashamed. They were sorry enough to have been caught, but apparently counted the endeavor no disgrace. When, however, I told them that they had been remarkably stupid to think they could hoodwink an instructor by such transparent ploys, they were hurt and angry. To be accused of falsehood was nothing; but to be called fools was a deadly insult.

Their standards of human character, in fine, were inverted. "Be clever, young man, and let who will be good," was their aphorism.. If they choose wives on such a principle — why, they will get precisely what they deserve; or if they choose mere friends so. For the most admirable quality in frail humanity is strong moral worth. A really honest human being, whose word is his bond, will outweight in the eternal scales ten slippery practitioners of the art of wordly wisdom.

True, one may not "get ahead" through mere practice of moral worth. "The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor yet bread to the wise, nor yet riches to men of understanding, nor yet favor to men of skill." Yet there is this great compensation a man with moral worth can live with himself; while the slippery-clever man lives a lie, and knows it. Not being able to trust himself, he can trust no one; therefore he is loveless, and success is dust and ashes.

Examinations are not primarily a social hurdle, but rather a measure of personal performance for the information of the student himself. By cheating on tests, the slippery student defrauds himself, really, both because he has failed to do the academic work being tested (and therefore has wasted his time and money in college) and because he cannot tell how well he might have done if he had refrained from fraud.

The cheat, then, actually is what he detests being called — a fool. But this world is full of clever fools, knowing the price of everything and the value of nothing.

Steel Contract Negotiations Hanging Fire

By W. A. SWARTWORTH

PITTSBURGH (AP) — It's been more than two weeks since the United Steel workers Union election, and still dangling is this question of national economic import: When will steel contract negotiations resume?

The AFL-CIO United Steel Workers and the steel industry have nine weeks to agree on new labor contracts. On May 1, the union is free to strike.

Negotiations have been stalled for seven weeks.

The impasse stems from uncertainty over the outcome of the election between incumbent David J. McDonald and Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel for the presidency of the million-member union.

It comes down to this: The union cannot send to the bargaining table anyone who can speak with unchallenged authority.

USW members voted Feb. 9. An official vote tabulation started last Monday at international headquarters in Pittsburgh. It could be several weeks before the result is known.

Union and industry negotiators met for exploratory talks last December. It soon became apparent that the McDonald-Abel feud precluded effective negotiations and talks were recessed Jan. 8.

On Monday, McDonald said he planned to contact steel industry leaders in the "very near future" to resume bargaining.

Industry and union sources insist they know nothing about developments — not even if McDonald has approached management.

AFL-CIO President George Meany had suggested that the USW extend its contracts beyond May 1 to make up for lost time.

Obviously irked, McDonald said any talk of an extension was "premature and prejudicial." Abel said that he couldn't understand why Meany broached the matter.

Twice before the union had rejected industry requests for an extension.

Another element of uncertainty was injected Thursday. Labor sources at the AFL-CIO Executive Council session in Miami Beach, Fla., raised the possibility of a new election.

These sources said the U.S. Labor Department would likely order another election if the result is within a few thousand votes.

The Labor Department has been watching the vote count at union headquarters.

Assuming a clear-cut winner does emerge, the McDonald-Abel split still could hamstring negotiations.

Regardless of the outcome, McDonald stays in office until June 1.

McDonald as a loser still would be president, nominally the No. 1 union negotiator.

Abel as a loser still would wield substantial power.

Rescue Crew Leaves Avalanche Area

STEWART, B.C. (AP) — A rescue crew of 54 men left the wreckage of the Granduc mining camp 30 miles north of Stewart late Wednesday.

Evacuation of the camp site was ordered after danger of more avalanches arose because of heavy snowfall on surrounding mountains and glaciers.

Helicopter crews lifted the last of the rescuers out as more snow fell.

The camp was wiped out a week ago by a giant slide. Nineteen men died, and seven are missing.

Muslim Chief Gets Maximum Protection

CHICAGO (AP) — The first test of massive security measures comes today when Black Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad travels the four miles from his 19-room mansion to the opening of the Muslims' national convention.

The security is unprecedented in Chicago for any person other than a president, police said. It begins with a bomb search of the 20,000-seat coliseum, site of the Black Muslims' meeting.

The convention — which runs through Sunday — opened on a note of tension because of assassination threats to Muhammad.

A telephone call to police headquarters Tuesday night said a bomb would explode today or Saturday in the Coliseum. Police doubted the threat, but planned a thorough search.

A 45-man detail is assigned to protect the convention site on the South Side. Police said some of their men will be inside the Coliseum posed as convention guests.

It was learned that elaborate security precautions have been taken by Muhammad's personal bodyguards, a karate-trained group known as the Fruit of Islam.

Each of the 5,000 Black Muslims entering the Coliseum will be searched by the Fruit of Islam. Newsmen covering the convention also will be searched. No policeman carrying a weapon will be allowed inside.

Muhammad, who calls himself the "messenger of Allah," has been isolated in his home since Malcolm X was assassinated in New York City Sunday.

Malcolm was at one time heir apparent to Muhammad, but he was later ousted and started a splinter group.

Today's convention session is in honor of W. D. Fard of Detroit, who founded the sect in the 1930s. Fard disappeared in 1933 and Muhammad — then Elijah Poole of Sandersville, Ga. — replaced him.

Cardinal Cushing May Resume Work

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors say they hope within a few days that Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston will be able to resume his work.

A medical advisory Thursday said that bronchial congestion which had troubled the 69-year-old cardinal had lessened and that he continues to improve from last Saturday's abdominal surgery.

The operation removed a portion of intestine which had developed growths.

Doctors said it was not determined if malignancy was present.

A few weeks ago Walt blasted girls who try to re-do their guys like a housewife revamping an old sofa.

A lot of letters came in response to Walt's remarks. Some growled, "Wrong!" and others sighed "Amen!" Here are a few samples:

Dear Walt: A boy is never all bad. I believe a nice wholesome girl can change a boy no matter what he has done in the past. If a boy really loves a girl (and she wants to help him for his own sake), he would do anything to please her.

She should tell him to either shape up or ship out. I would bet in six months he'd be a better boy because she cared.—Ann

Dear Walt: I agree with you in only one point. A girl can't change her guy if she figures, "He'll be nice when he's housebroken." A girl must want the change for the betterment of her guy, not what she thinks she'll gain by it. It must be done unselfishly or it will never stick.

This past summer I had the pleasure of going with the nicest fellow. He was in trouble with the police because his parents didn't care a darn about him. He found his security by hanging around in a gang with guys who proved themselves by stealing.

I'm no psychoanalyst but I would feel safe in saying that I gave him some of the security he needed.—His Girl

Hello Walt: I hope that column knocked the stardust out of some girls' eyes.

As long as I can remember, Timmy was in some kind of hot water. I thought he'd change after we got married. But no! I was so wrong!

Here I am, 23 years old and three children later and Timmy's still the same kid. He hangs around the poolhall and the bar with his buddies all the time. He says I nag when I suggest he get a new job. He's lost six jobs in the past three years.

I realize my mistake now, but it's too late! — Old Sofa's Wife

Dear Walt: I used to go with an "old sofa," but after two years of repeated frustrations and disappointments, I decided to call it quits.

He was swell to me; considerate and well - behaved, but he continued to see his old gang and get into trouble. He promised many times to reform, but never did.

I felt guilty when we split because I still felt that he needed me. But I know now that I did the right thing. — "Reformed Social Worker."

Iowa Abolishes Death Penalty

DES MOINES (UPI) — Gov. Harold E. Hughes, expressing confidence that Iowa will see no increase in crime because of it, today signed a bill abolishing the state's death penalty.

The bill changes the law to require life in prison for persons convicted of crimes formerly punishable by death. The new law will take effect July 4.

"I have long felt that capital puinshment inflicted great spiritual damage on all of society," Hughes said.

"In the future, this state will be happy to be among the leading states that have abolished it. I feel confident there will be no reflection in our capital crimes because of this legislation," the governor said.

Shootings Reported In Mobile, Ala.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Mayor Charles S. Trimmier says a shooting at his home won't affect his stand on civil rights.

Police continued an intensive probe today into the Tuesday night shootings at Trimmier's home and at the residence of a Negro civil rights leader, J. L. Leflore. The shootings were related, authorities said. No one was hurt.

Trimmier said the shots may have resulted from a speech Monday night in which he said "I will keep the laws of these United States."

"If this is a reaction to my pledge and if brave cowards intend to threaten me by endangering the lives of my children they can rest assured that I will continue exactly as I have promised," he said Wednesday.

U.S. Economist Faces Argentine Trouble

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Walt Rostow, State Department economist, was prevented from speaking at Buenos Aires University Wednesday night by students shouting anti-American slogans.

Some witnesses reported the demonstrators also pelted Rostow with eggs and tomatoes.

When Rostow tried to speak he was drowned out by shouts of "Cuba," "Free Viet Nam," and "Long live Communist China" from a group of about 25 youths. He later spoke to another group of students to the U.S. Embassy. sy.

Parolee Did Not Plan Going to Hospital

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Kenneth E. Jones, 26, is a patient in Our Lady of the Lake Hospital here today, but Jones didn't plan it that way.

Police say Jones, a parolee, was spotted while apparently trying to burglarize the hospital's nursing home.

Locked in a third floor bathroom, Jones jumped from the window in an effort to escape and then was admitted to the hospital as a patient for treatment of cuts and fractures.

Russians Must Go Ahead With Commie Meeting

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Russians, probably wishing they'd never started the business, appear to have little choice but to go ahead with the international Communist meeting scheduled to open Monday. Far from helping heal the world Communist rift, the session is likely to aggravate it.

At best, from the Soviet viewpoint, the meeting will be just about meaningless, an opportunity to produce a public chorus of denunciation of the United States and in private to debate fruitlessly whither the world Communist movement is drifting.

Clearly there is a widespread lack of enthusiasm among the invited parties. Moscow invited 25 which, with the Soviet party, framed the 1960 Moscow declaration, supposedly then a charter for the world movement.

Three parties — the Chinese, the big Indonesian party and the Albanian — already have rejected the invitation. Five more — Romanian, North Korean, North Vietnamese, Japanese and British — are likely to stay away. The result may be a turnout of 17 or less of the invited 25, a sorry spectacle of Moscow's leadership.

Even the Polish party has been expressing doubts of the wisdom of the meeting, which was supposed to prepare for a conference of all parties to study the rift and sort out conflicting views. Possibly there are doubts even in the Soviet party itself.

But Moscow has itself in a box. It has committed itself to the meeting and would be reluctant at this late date to back away. That would look like surrender to Peking. The Kremlin hardly wants to leave the impression that it bows to Chinese pressure.

The meeting comes at an awkward time for Moscow. The Viet Nam crisis has reached new heights of tension and the Chinese point an accusing finger at Moscow. Fearful of being involved in what may explode in Asia, the Russians have supported the idea of negotiations to remove the fuse. The Chinese, scenting Communist victory, show no taste for negotiations.

The Kremlin leadership probably has provoked the Chinese anew. It has tried to overleap Peking in Asia and seek support for a policy of cautious Communist expansion in an era of "peaceful coexistence." It has repeated, despite what happened in Viet Nam, that it still seeks normal relations with Washington.

This activity hardly could please Peking. Reacting to it, Chinese politburo member Peng Cheng called for even more belligerence toward the United States, implying the Russians were scared to view the United States as "a paper tiger being beaten everywhere in the world."

The events in Viet Nam brought only an appearance of lessened hostility between Peking and Moscow. Actually, neither has budged from its basic position. This makes other Communist parties nervous. They suspect the international meeting could bring a showdown between conflicting viewpoints even without China's presence. There is considerable sympathy for the Chinese viewpoint among European parties. The Communists don't want to be forced to make a choice.

The noise of the big Red debate has abated, but the battle continues. Peking still scorns the Russians. The Chinese recently were careful to publicize the fact that Moscow voted with the United States and Yugoslavia — that bastion of "modern revisionism" — to avoid a U.N. showdown on the financial issue.

Today Peking Radio attacked the new leaders in the Kremlin as hypocrites who extolled Khrushchev and pinned medals on him one day, then aboutfaced and tried to make him a nonperson.

These could be signals that the propaganda barrage may begin at any time from the Chinese side. Perhaps only the Viet Nam tension holds it back.

Plane Downed, Pilot Missing, In Maneuvers

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — A Navy flier's plane was downed by a surface to air missile fired during maneuvers being conducted off the California Coast, the Navy and Marine Corps reported today.

The flier, identified as Lt. (j.g.) Larry J. Cooper, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henderson W. Cooper of Valdosta, Ga., is presumed dead, a spokesman for the joint command conducting Exercise Silver Lance reported.

The spokesman said Cooper flew his A4E Skyhawk attack plane into a restricted missile-firing zone Thursday 150 miles southwest of San Diego at the scheduled time, and on the course, of an expected target drone.

The fatal missile was the second of two Terriers fired from the guided missile frigate USS Preble, the spokesman said.

The missile made a direct hit and Cooper's plane crashed into the sea, the spokesman said. It was not revealed whether the missile was armed with an explosive charge at the time.

Officials said a search of the area revealed only scattered debris.

The spokesman said that as Cooper's plane flew into the restricted area it was tracked on radar aboard the USS Preble.

Cooper had taken off from the carrier USS Midway, which earlier this week had sailed from its home port of Alameda, Calif., to take part in the exercises.

Cooper belonged to Light Attack Squadron 23, based at Lemoore, Calif., the spokesman said.

SKATE BOARD A HAZARD

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —Remember the scooters that were made from old roller skate wheels and soap crates?

One of their descendents — the skate board—is becoming a major safety hazard on Chattanooga streets.

Police Traffic Division Chief Lamar Boyd says there have been several near - accidents caused by children using the toys in the streets.

They're just like the old scooters, but without handlebars. The youngsters push off with one foot, then ride the small board as if they were skimming over breakers at the seashore.

Chief Boyd says use of the boards violates a city code which says, "No person shall go upon any roadway on roller skates or ridding by means of any coaster toy vehicle or similar device, except while crossing a street on a crosswalk."

"Where trading is a pleasant experience"

Songwriters File Suit for Millions

NEW YORK (AP) — Kids all over the country who are singing it apparently don't know — or care — whether it's spelled "s-p-rcalifragilisticexpialidocious" or "s-p-e-calafajalistickespeealadojus."

But songwriters Gloria Parker and Barney Young Care. About $12 million worth, they said in a suit filed in federal court Thursday.

They claim they wrote the second version, the one that ends in "dojus," and offered it to Walt Disney in 1951.

They had an "implicit agreement" with Disney, they contend, that if he used the song he would pay them.

The suit names Miss Andrews, Disney and the Shermans as defendants.

MEATY RECORD

CHICAGO (UPI) — The meat packers of the United States expect to slaughter and pack a record 18.7 billion pounds of beef this year. Per capita consumption of beef is expected to rise by 2½ pounds to 102.5 pounds.

Hardly a Ripple for Marina Oswald

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Marina Oswald is expected to leave the University of Michigan today, having caused hardly a ripple on the campus scene.

The 23-year-old Russian-born widow of Lee Harvey Oswald, alleged assassin of President John F. Kennedy, has completed a course at the university's English-language institute.

She spent eight weeks here as a part-time coed learning the English language.

"She was no different from anybody else," one of Mrs. Oswald's fellow students said.

Prof. John R. Catford, institute director, said other students had taken little special notice of Mrs. Oswald.

An institute representative said Mrs. Oswald was expected to return to her Fort Worth, Tex., home.

BELGRADE (AP) — Sixteen of the hilliest streets in Belgrade were closed to all auto traffic this winter, so the children could use them safely for sledding.

TECHNICALITIES

GLEN HEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—The Achilles Heel of technically-oriented business is a shortage of secretaries with a little technical know - how, claims President Walter Venghaus of Technical Information Corp. He says many costly errors are caused by a secretary's failure to recognize the words the boss uses in dictating.
